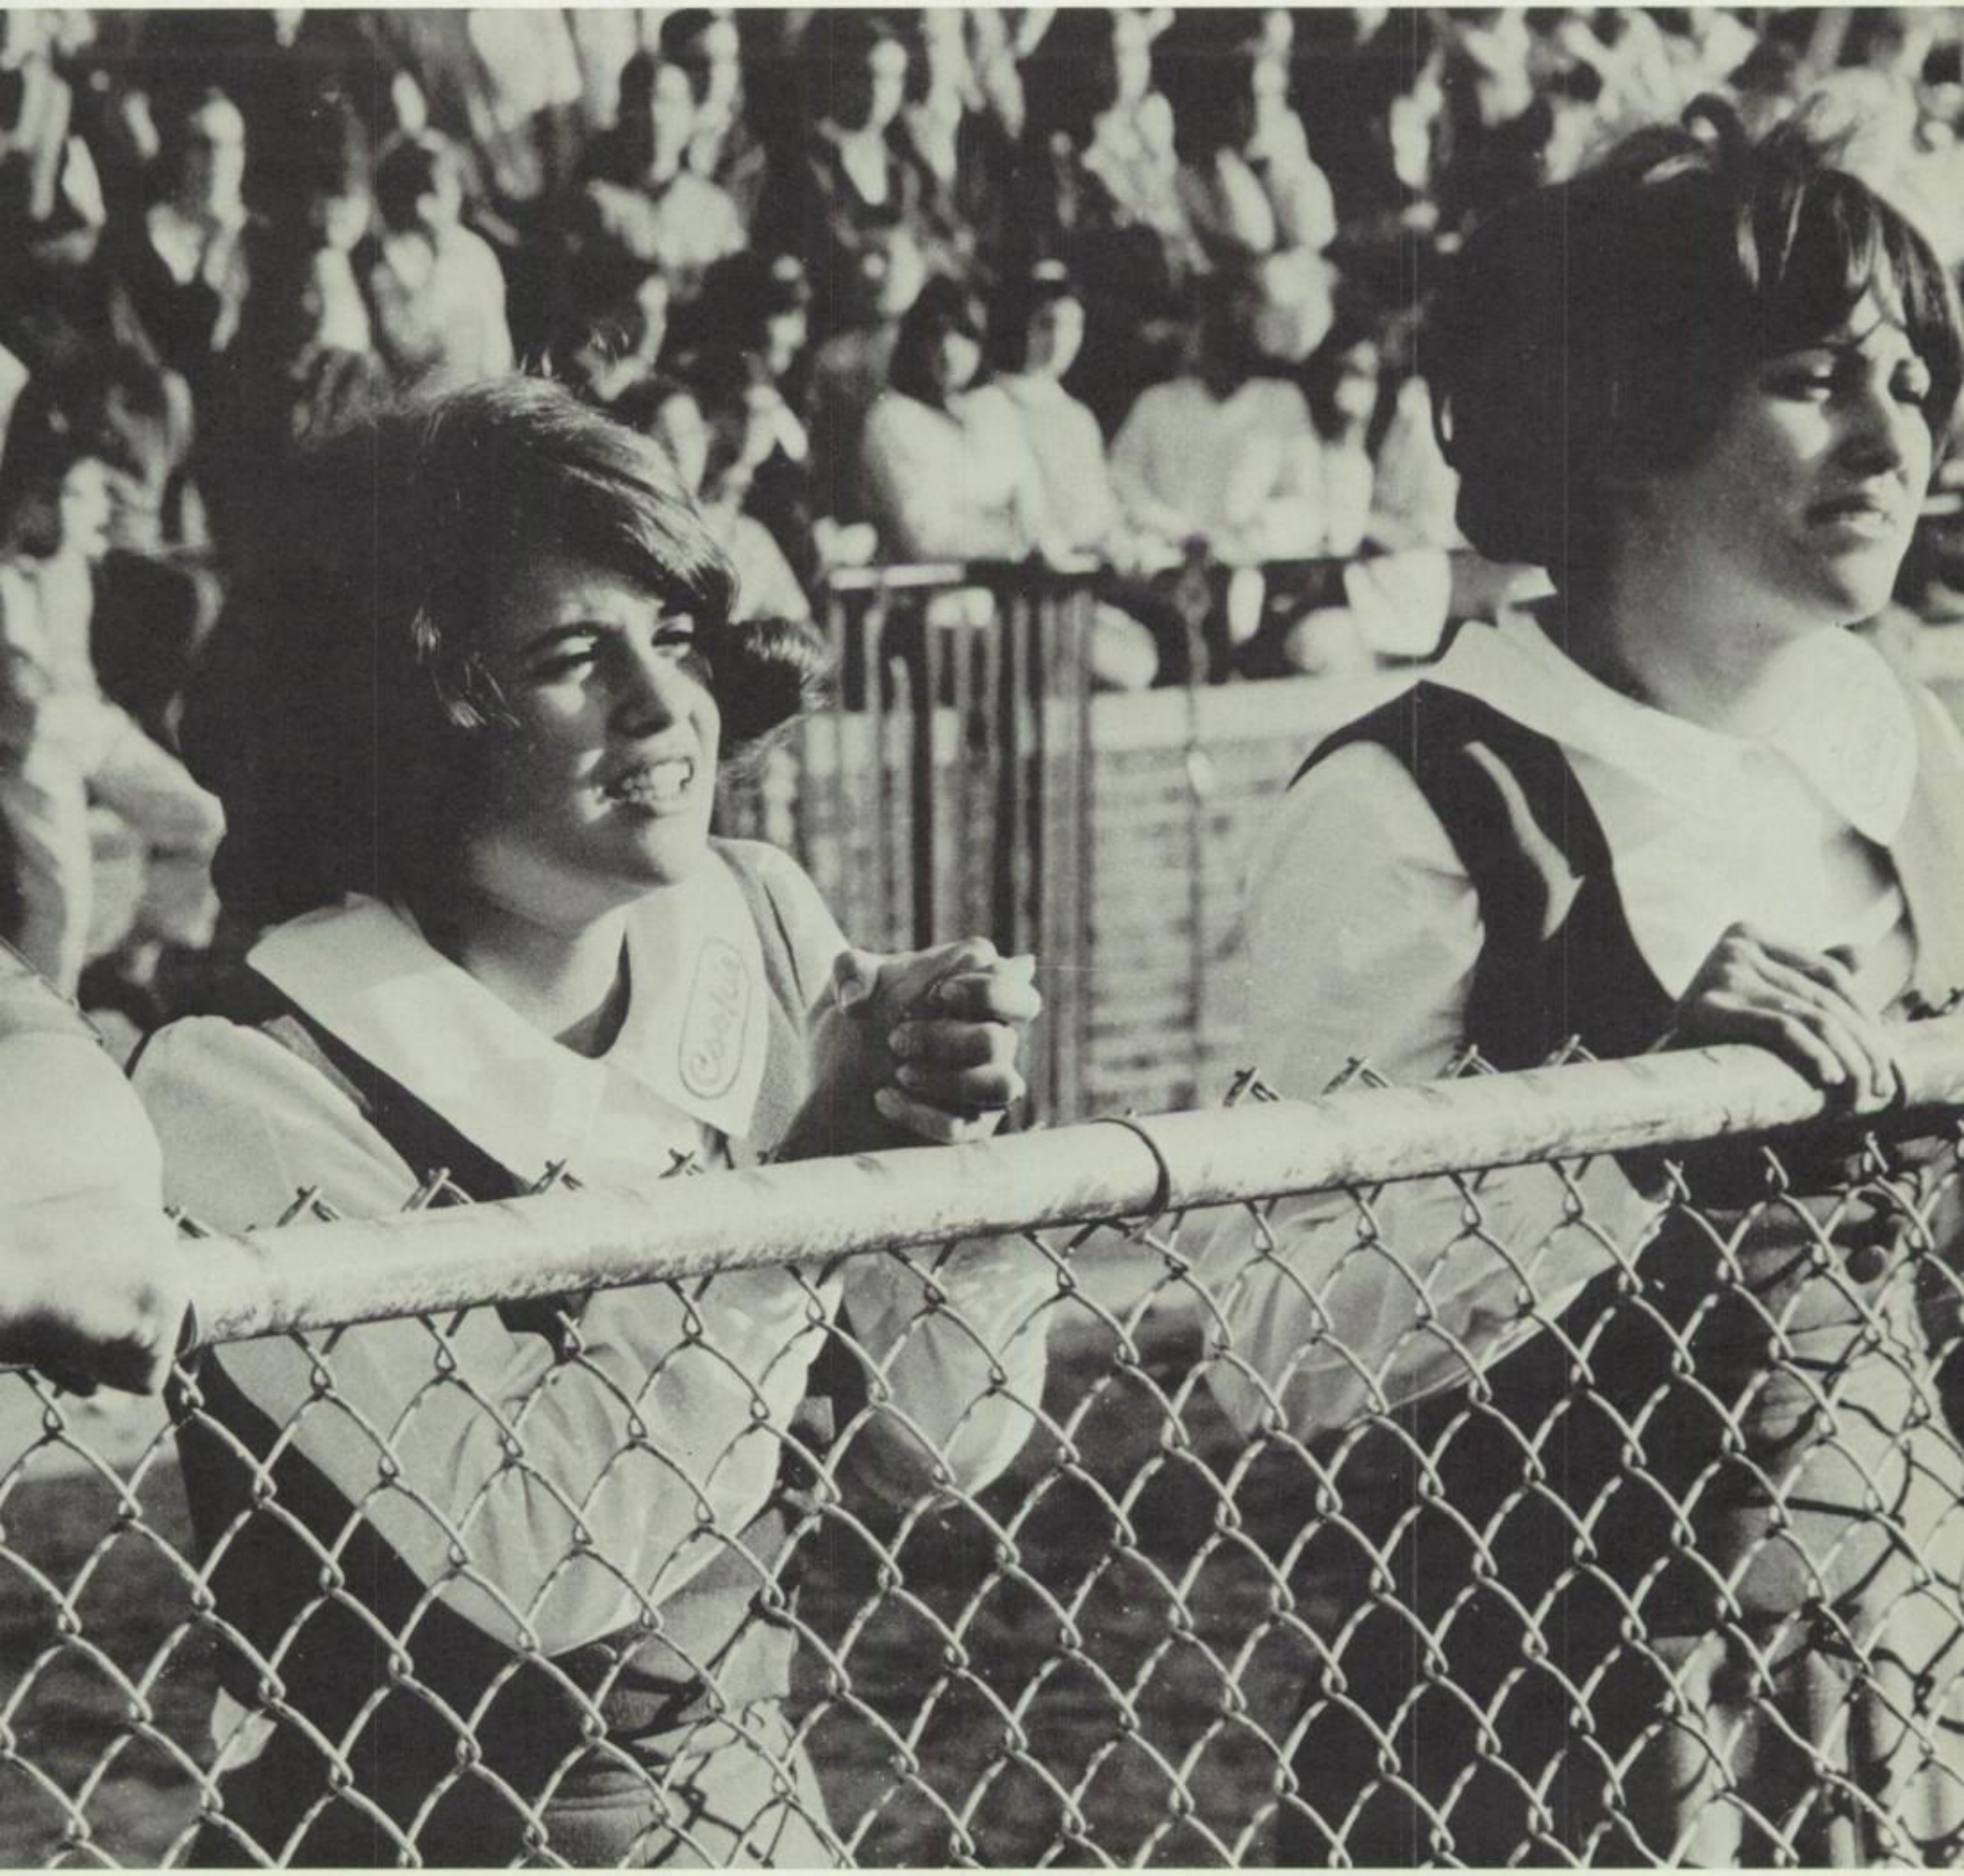
Shaker, 1965 . . . .

STUDENT LIFE IS SHAKER. Each unique personality makes its distinctive contribution to the versatility, vitality, and strength that is Shaker. Student life is not restricted to a single action or activity, but encompasses the entire sum of individual experience. In learning and growing personally, as well as expanding relations with others, each individual unifies the whole of student life by reflecting a common patriotism, a rousing spirit, that is Shaker.



Everyone except Mr. Sanna listens attentively to Mr. Heinlen's welcoming remarks at the Hello Assembly.

Starting the year successfully, sophomores attend their own Shindig.

Shaker Foresees Year of Accomplishment

Shaker began vigorously this year, as sophomores, juniors, and seniors left behind summer memories and plunged into scholastic activities. Dr. John A. Stanavage, the new principal, greeted sophomores twice, first at their Orientation Assembly before school commenced and then at the traditional Hello Assembly. At the Hello Assembly Mr. Sanna introduced Shaker's revamped football defense by showing off the gleaming new football helmets of the Work Horse Eleven. Mr. Sanna predicted the successful football season which the Raiders accomplished.

The first all-school project, that of selling Activity Tickets, was successful and set the pace for other challenging projects which the student body fulfilled. The Annual United Appeal Drive, Shaker's second challenge, proved profitable, as Shakerites donated a record amount of $3200 to United Appeal. For the second consecutive year, the Car Wash gave Shakerites the vital opportunity to give of themselves as well as of their pocketbooks. The Car Wash, planned by Beth Dunlop and Abby Lodish, was successful both in greatly augmenting the United Appeal donation and in giving the student body an opportunity to demonstrate their enthusiasm and unified spirit. Mr. Szwaja's never-to-be-forgotten motorcycle ride across the stage reminded students that Shaker is more than just a school building for studies.

Sophomores exhibited their latent spirit when first given the chance—at the Sophomore Shindig. Newly elected sophomores planned frantically to create a "foot-stompin' " success.

High-stepping majorettes welcome students to all fall football games.

Abby Lodish convinces Shakerites to have their cars brain-washed at the annual United Appeal Car Wash Assembly.

Boy cheerleaders heighten the enthusiasm.

Bob Collins, Steve Cohn, and Ira Moses demonstrate a way to hit high notes.

Football Queen Jody Bernon smilingly receives the applause of candidates Cookie Chesler, Marguerite Comella, Sue Pentek, and Julie Suk.

Not all friendship at Shaker was furthered during class time. Two weeks after the annual Kick-Off Dance, Student Council hosted its Derby Dance, where sophomores established the fact that they are the best tricycle riders at Shaker. The yearly Hi-Y Fall Ball, Christmas Dance, and Exam Bang proved successful. Happiness was the theme of the Girls' Leaders Dance in February. Providing for class projects, the juniors' Smorgasbord and the seniors' Western All-You-Can-Eat party were attended by those hoping for a prom at a prominent place.

Candy canes and semi-formal dresses cheer the Christmas Dance.

"And now he is the ruler of the Queen's Navee."

Shaker '65—a year of friendship. Dr. Stanavage introduced this new atmosphere to Shakerites at the Hello Assembly.

A common foe united students in October. Joining in a chorus of "Hold that Tiger," Shakerites verbally assured themselves a victory over the Cleveland Heights High Tigers. At the Heights pep assembly football co-captains Bill Desberg and Rick Krumlauf summarized Shaker's chances of victory. Said Bill, "So far in league play we have allowed only six runs [sic]." Although the boys were not articulate, they proved their physical prowess by trouncing the tigers.

December 16 ushered in a new kind of Holiday Assembly. Instead of the traditional choral presentation, members of Shaker's three choirs presented folk songs, show tunes, and classical pieces.

Returning from Christmas vacation, Shaker students received an enthusiastic lesson from Dr. Zelma George, alternate United States representative to the United Nations. Dr. George spoke on "The United Nations, a Lesson in Democracy."

All-school High School Bowl assemblies roused friendly class rivalries. During the first assembly, the junior team defeated the sophomore team. In the second assembly the juniors battled the seniors to a 90-90 half-time tie and won the contest.

American Field Service student Mary Jo Bishop illustrated with slides the hospitality that her Australian family had extended to her during her junior year. Rabbi Phillip Horowitz spoke on the nature of man in the late February assembly commemorating Brotherhood Week.

After-School Action Completes the Day

When the 3:30 bell rang and the scholastic day ended, students had just begun their extra-curricular activities. Clubs, publications, choral groups, student government activities, and sports occupied much of the students' time.

Meeting in the cafeteria, in the small auditorium, or in a classroom, clubs organized both informative and entertaining meetings. Campaign managers for Ohio senatorial candidates spoke to Shakerites in November. Shaker's Youth Council on Human Relations hosted a gathering of American Field Service students in the Cleveland area. In clubs Shakerites learned how to play bridge, how to solve mathematical equations, and how to remove an appendix.

The Shakerite, Gristmill, and Semanteme staffs often remained at school as late as 5:30 or 6:00. The editors of Shakerite worked to meet each deadline and to put out a six-page Christmas issue. Gristmill staff left school on Fridays only to eat dinner. Working to meet a deadline, the editors then returned to school to work past midnight.

Even with A Cappella choir's extra hours spent in rehearsal, the production Kiss Me, Kate required more than three months to produce.

Student Council and Social Council projects often necessitated after-school efforts. Working countless hours in planning programs, the presidents of the organizations formed Shaker's solid corps of leadership. Social Council's Snack Bar, open twice a week after school, offered refreshments to hungry Shakerites.

After-school sports occupied the spare time of many students. Shaker's impressive athletic records for this year reflected the time spent in practice.

Motorcycles rumble to their peak of popularity with Mr. Szwaja.

"A-boo-dai!" "Hey!" "A-boo-dai!" "Hey!" was the Work Horse battle cry initiated at the Heights Pep Assembly. The cheer and the Work Horse Eleven helmets were only two of the many innovations seen by Shaker in 1965.

Early November viewed the first schoolwide mock election of the nation's President and Vice-President and Ohio's Senators and Representatives. Choosing Johnson, the nation followed the straw vote of Shakerites. This spirit of national interest and pride was reflected in the students' request for flags in each classroom.

However, interest was not restricted to the political. With the opening of the Humanities course, students explored the realms of art, music, and history three times a week at 7:30 a.m. Student Council contributed to Shaker's changes by combining the Interclass Tournament with the February Fun Fest. Council added to the senior's troubles by creating and assigning numbered parking spaces around the oval, a system which found limited success.

of Change at Shaker

"Come on, Randy, move your bloomin' plate."

THE FACULTY IS SHAKER. In the daily experience of the classroom, the faculty exerts great influence on each student. It accepts the important responsibility for constructively channeling intellectual curiosity, enthusiasm, and growing self-awareness. Although comprised of many diverse personalities and specialized areas of interest, the faculty is united by the challenge of its common effort and goal—to instruct, inspire, and edify.

To the Class of 1965:

As I extend my hand to you in poignant farewell, quick memories crowd in upon me. It seems only yesterday I offered you that same handclasp in warm welcome last September. Then, as your new principal, I was exchanging trust and confidence with you. Today, as your old friend, I am bidding you good speed to your own bright tomorrow. I am saddened to see you depart, for as my first Senior Class in Shaker Heights High School, you have a special claim on my affections. But the future lies ahead; 1964-65 with its soaring memories now rightfully is a part of your past.

Quicksilver memories for me, swift memories for you! As you leave Shaker High, take with you the hopes it has fired in you, the ideals it has kindled, the aspirations it has ignited. Take with you as a banner and a flame the high standards of Shaker High. Take with you those sweet and wry recollections of high school years. Take these with you, but leave behind a touch of yourself, the imprint on your heart. Leave behind the fragrance of your dreams.

Farewells always are somber. Rather than weeping a goodbye to the past, therefore, carol an affirmative hello to new horizons. Our paths shall cross again. When they do, may our friendship be as certain as it is now.

And do have a nice future!

Communication - Aid to Education

Communication between administration and student body continued to play an important role at Shaker this year. In keeping with Shaker's traditional progressive outlook, Dr. John A. Stanavage, Shaker's new principal, initiated a program of forming a close bond between the administration and student body through various media. He addressed the students daily over the P.A., commending individuals and organizations for outstanding achievement. He published Chalk Talk, a newsletter designed to deal closely with "program and purposes" of education. He reinstituted the Curriculum Committee in order to "keep Shaker High abreast of the educational revolution" by examining educational methods of other schools.

An able staff aided Dr. Stanavage in his program. Mr. Martin W. Meshenberg assumed the responsibility of Director of Student Activities this year. Mr. Emil J. Sarpa became the Student Council adviser. Seventeen new faculty members strengthened Shaker's staff.

Shaker's educational system can only be as effective as its students, administrators, and faculty make it. Because of the close contact between teacher and student and superior leadership by Shaker's faculty, all students may expect to fulfill their own individual ambitions and desires as well as the one goal for which they all strive—education.

Guidance Counselors Offer Assistance

Personal guidance played an important part in Shaker's educational program. Sophomore counselors aided their class in the difficult task of becoming adjusted to an unfamiliar environment. Junior Counselors encouraged their group to start thinking about possible college choices, and senior counselors advised the seniors in the final preparation of college application forms.

While sophomore and juniors divided into individual "group guidance" classes, this year's senior class met en masse in the small auditorium. The advantage of this arrangement was to enable guest speakers to address a large number of students concerning various vocational fields.

Each year over 90% of Shaker's graduating class goes on to college. Scheduled conferences gave college-bound students a more intimate glimpse of the various universities. Bulletins and catalogues were available to students to assist them in their selection of a school. The guidance counselors were always on hand to offer personal assistance toward this important goal.

Students "Leveled" by Math Program

Shaker's mathematics program consists of five levels of math including courses in general math, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, probability and statistics, college algebra, calculus, and analytic geometry. The fifth level included advanced placement students, level four consisted of students who planned to take three or more years of math, and the remaining three levels dealt in various degrees with students who were not interested in furthering their knowledge of math beyond the two-year Shaker requirement.

The trend in the instruction of math was away from the traditional toward the modern in an evolutionary way. The modern approach included precision in the use of language and appropriate symbols, old topics handled with a new approach, and the introduction of new topics. In a novel experiment, Dr. Charles Buck of the Educational Research Council instructed one class of level four geometry using the textbook that he wrote.

In society every adult should be mathematically literate with more intensive training necessary for those interested in the general mathematical fields. With a background in math a person is better able to solve problems because he has learned methods of approach.

English Department Strives for Excellence

Shaker's English program revolved around studies in literature, composition, and grammar. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors became familiar with the literary styles of Dickens, Hardy, Hawthorne, and Shakespeare. By assigning compositions regularly, teachers hoped to gain "excellence, unity, force, clarity, emphasis, style, independent thought, conciseness, and of course significance." Grammar was emphasized in the sophomore year.

Juniors were required to take a six week course in speech, three weeks each semester. Demonstration speeches, symposiums, and poetry readings all contributed to help frightened juniors gain self-confidence and improve their public speaking.

This year Shaker's English teachers participated in the National Council of Teachers of English Convention held in Cleveland. Shaker was also one of 110 schools throughout the country selected for the two year comprehensive study of the teaching of English in secondary schools. The purpose of the study is to "identify and describe current programs and practices of highly regarded English departments throughout the country." The project started in September, 1963, and will continue until August, 1965.

Shaker's language program offered a combination of studies in listening, speaking, reading, and writing to help students develop competence in French, German, Spanish, and Latin. The department continued to refine its laboratory program by adding recordings to its already extensive recordings library. Spanish students made use of a new textbook, Oral-Aural, and incoming Spanish students may look forward to a four year program in that language.

This year an advanced level course for third and fourth year French students was offered. The students read complete plays by Racine, Voltaire, and Corneille, and many subscribed to the French Magazine, Paris Match. The course provided an excellent opportunity for students to delve more deeply into the French classics as well as to increase their fluency in conversational French.

Social Studies Department Broadens Curriculum

Students interested in the social studies field could choose among a variety of courses offered in American problems, American government, American history, modern European history, sociology, and world geography. The social studies department also broadened its curriculum to include an experimental course in the humanities. Directed by Mr. Cramer, the course included studies in the literature, history, philosophy, music, and art of classical Greece and Rome, the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Students benefited from guest speakers, many of whom enlivened their presentations with illustrative material. Participants in the program attended lectures at 7:30 a.m. three days a week in addition to reading various selections outside of class.

Team teaching continued in American problems. This method entailed a wide use of audio-visual aids as well as large and small group instruction and individual study. Large group instruction was used for the purpose of lecturing, administering exams, and showing movies.

Science — "An Adventure of the Mind"

The science department offered various levels of study in biology, chemistry, and physics. Two levels of biology and three levels of chemistry and physics comprised the high school program. Biology with a more experimental approach was achieved through the Biological Sciences Course Study. Students with reservations about tackling chemistry were relieved to note that a more "comfortable" second level course had been added this year. All chemistry students studied under the Chem Study program, while physics enthusiasts studied under the PSSC system.

The Shaker science program was designed with several general objectives. The program focused on the individual student in an attempt to develop his ingenuity, imagination, and intellectual curiosity. It also sought to teach the student to "distinguish probabilities from certainties, evidence from propaganda, rational belief from superstition, and science from quackery." The science department hoped to present science in general as an "adventure of the human mind and spirit."

Shaker students learned useful skills through courses offered in art, business, home economics, industrial arts, and music. The art department's curriculum included much "problem solving" in terms of design and illustration projects, which involved creative thinking, as well as work in the fields of drawing, painting, illustration, crafts, and research. Business education included courses ranging from typing, to shorthand and notehand. Home economics students acquired skills in cooking and sewing, while those interested in industrial arts became proficient in mechanical drawing or shop. Shaker's music department was divided into two sections, one including band, orchestra, and music theory, and the other represented by the A Cappella Choir, Concert Choir, and Glee Club.

Physical Education Keeps Bodies Fit

The physical education department at Shaker strived to develop agility, flexibility, and endurance in each of its students. It also advocated teamwork—coordinating one's skills with the abilities of others—and above all, emphasized good sportsmanship.

Students in both boys' and girls' physical education classes choose among a variety of outdoor and indoor sports. Girls selected archery, fencing, softball, tennis, golf, swimming, modern dance, trampoline, basketball, soccer, hockey, and volleyball. Boys participated in volleyball, basketball, swimming, weight lifting, wrestling, and track. Both boys and girls were required to pass the Red Cross Intermediate Swimming Test.

SENIORS ARE SHAKER. It is the energy and spirit of the class, not the calendar of events, that gives a senior year distinctive personality. This year, motivated by a vigorous and enthusiastic administration, the class helped to set the academic tone for the school, as well as to increase pride and participation in Shaker. Individually, the seniors, in specialized areas of school life, formed the nucleus of the school's leadership.

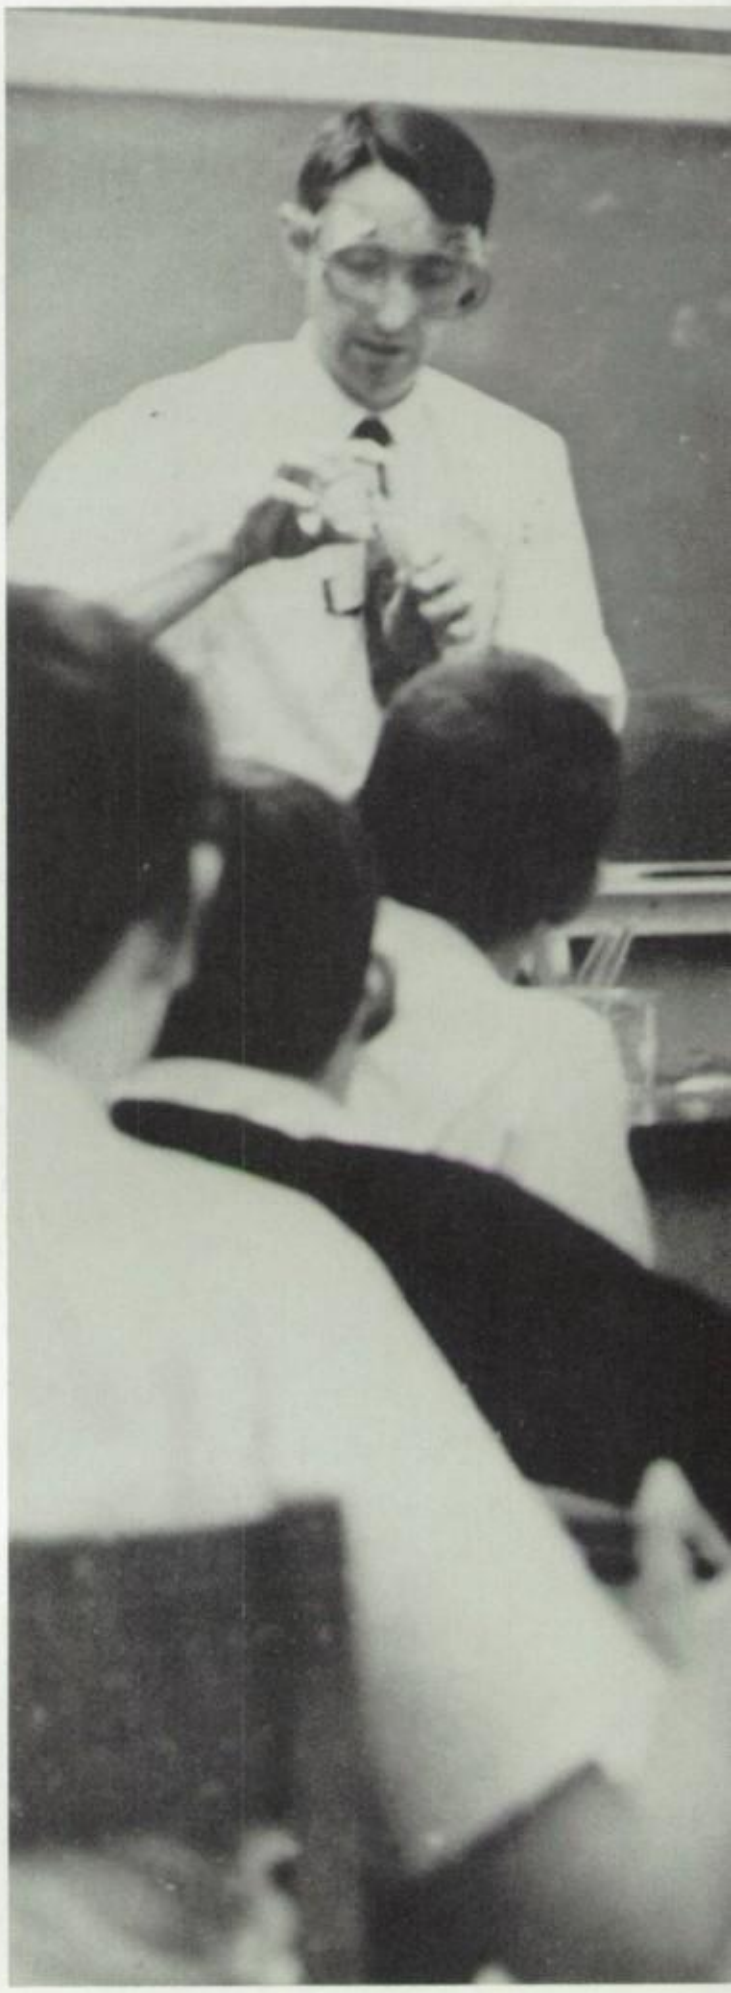
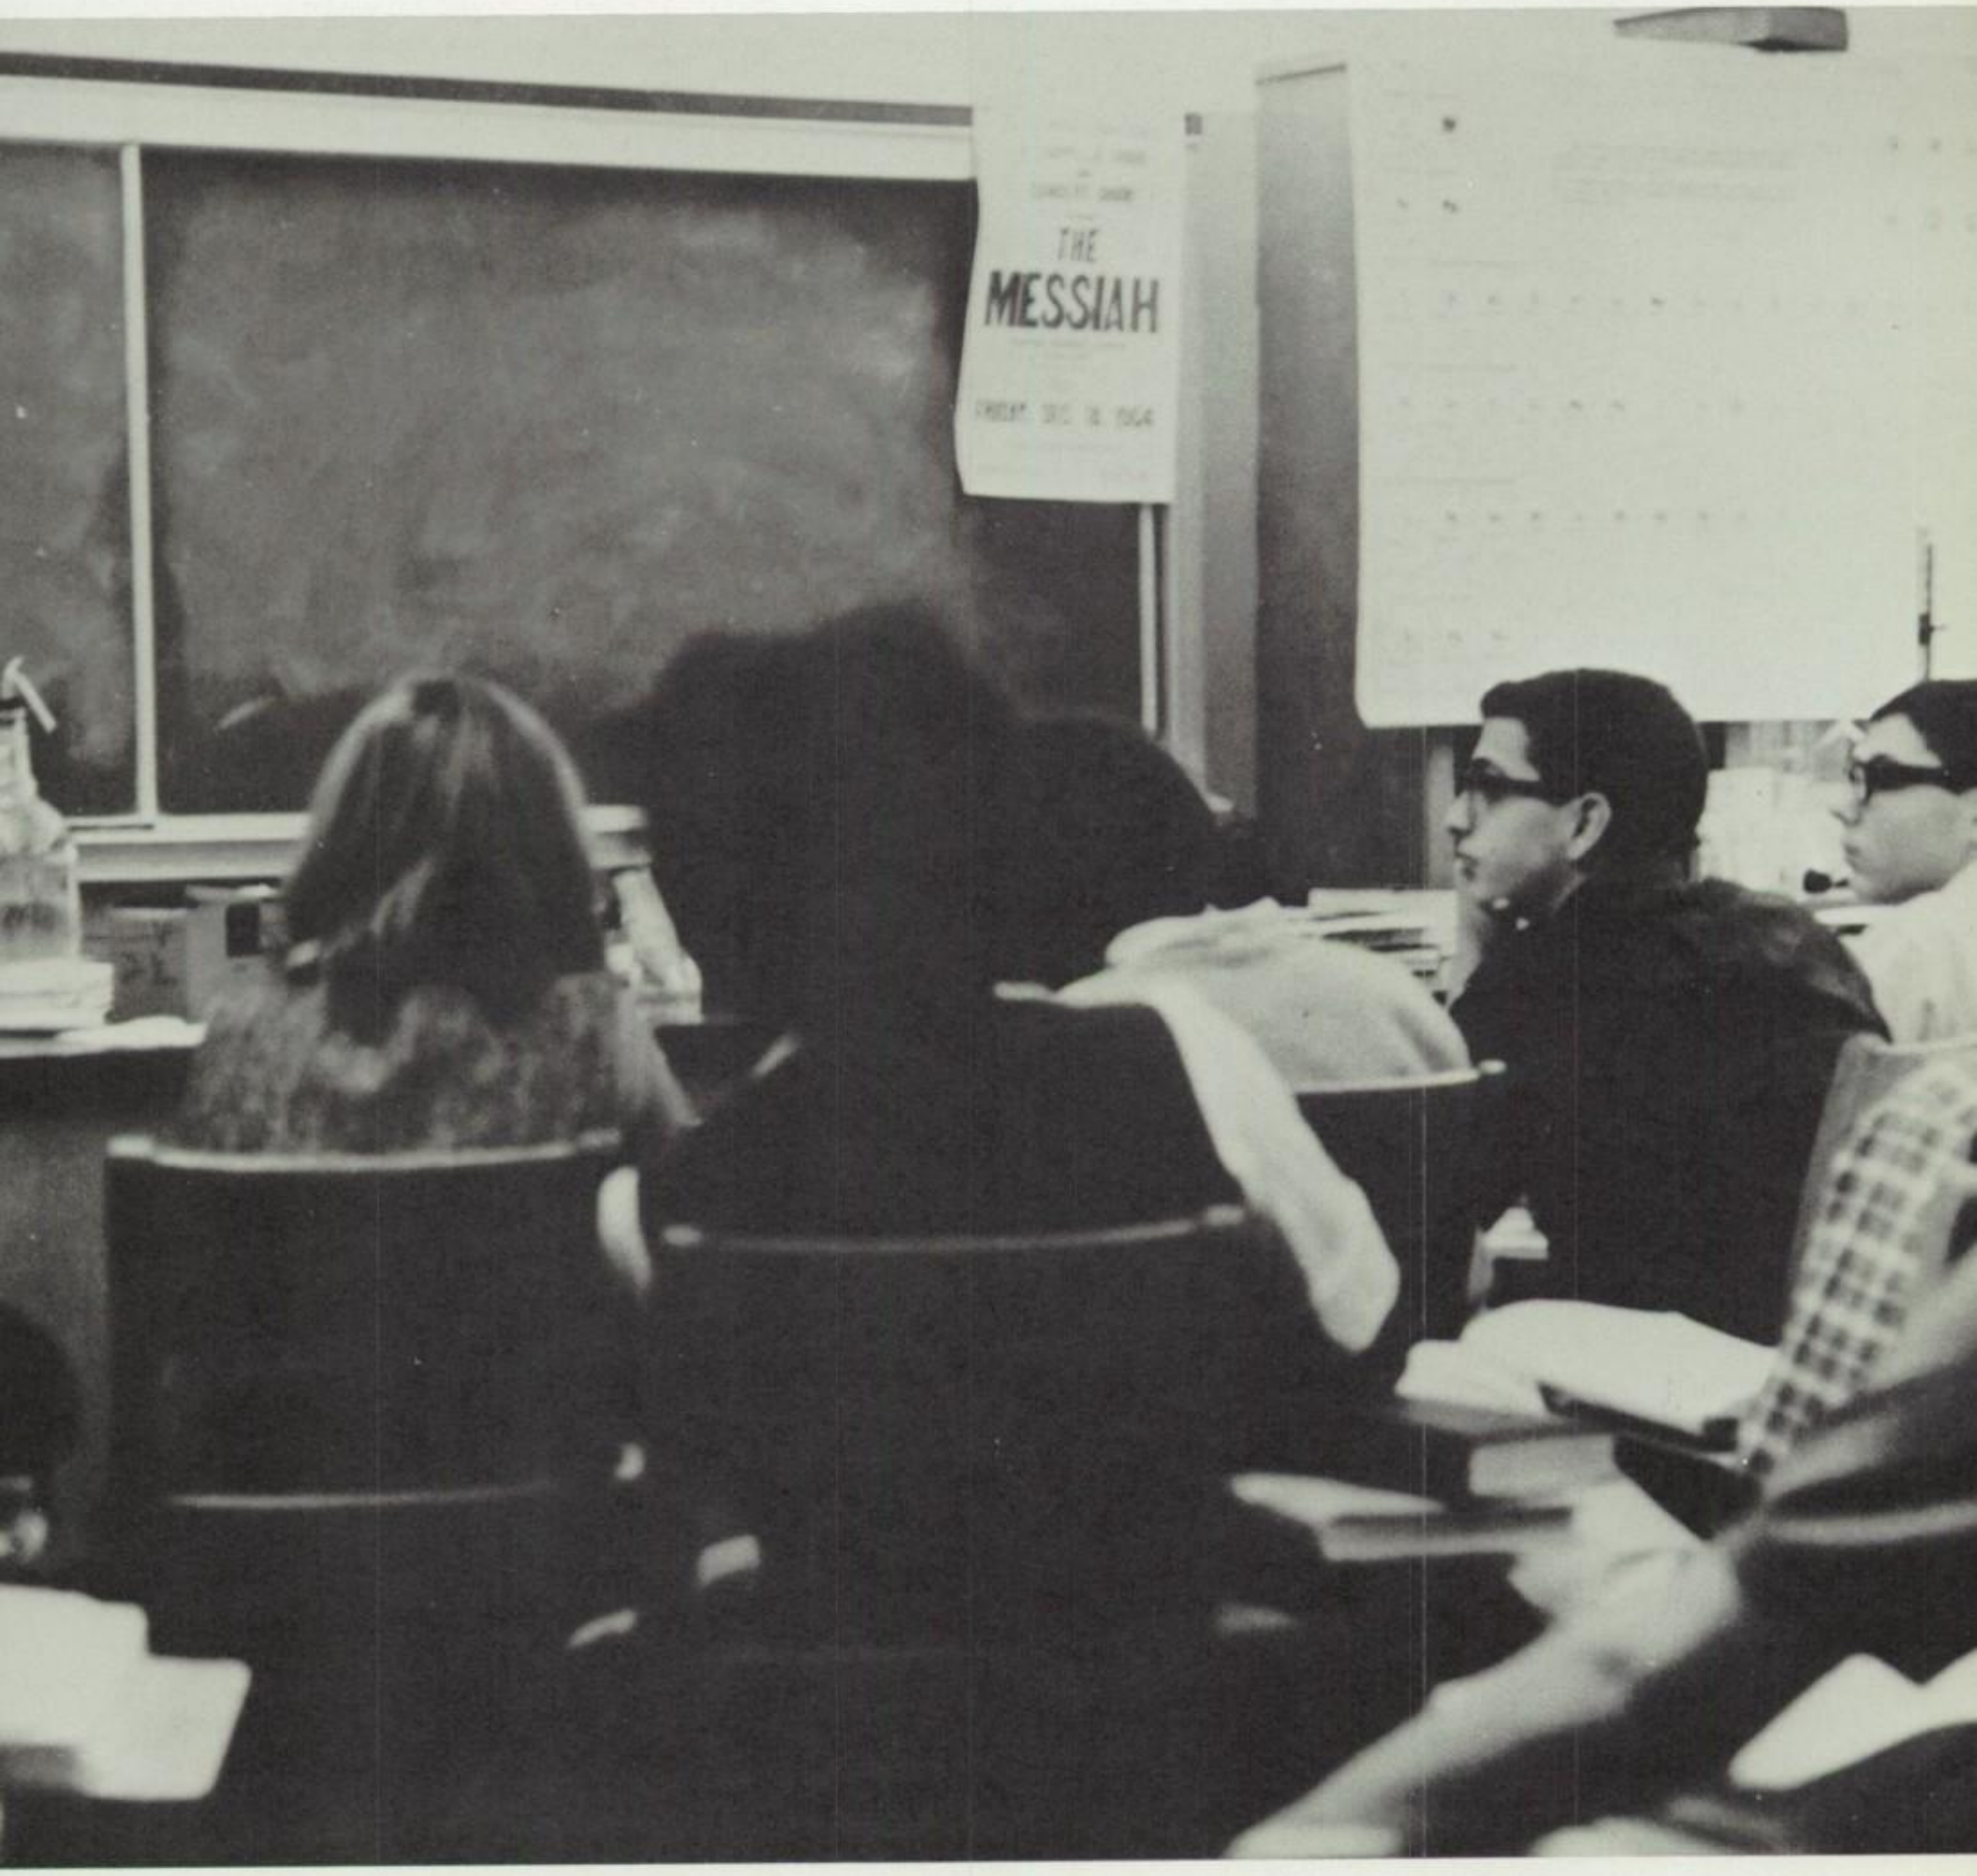
CLASSES ARE SHAKER. The underclassmen explore the many aspects of Shaker. They learn of the opportunities Shaker offers for developing talents and interests, both in the classroom and outside it. In these formative years, adapting to the new environment of high school, the sophomores and juniors formulate and solidify the attitudes and values upon which will be built their appreciation and goals.





THE

Sighting in on a good year are Junior class officers Cal Caminati, president; Don Snyder, vice-president; Randy Hughes, treasurer; and Nancy Weckesser, social chairman, as Secretary Bette Baxter assists.

Seasoned Juniors Aim for Higher Goals

The accomplishments of the Class of 1966 were almost as varied and numerous as the desserts at the Junior Class Smorgasbord. Led by their exceptionally hard-working class officers and rallying behind their favorite symbol, 66>65, the members of this year's junior class exhibited extraordinary class spirit. This feeling of oneness was fostered primarily by the Class Smorgasbord on December 5 which was attended by nearly 500 students.

For many juniors this year provided new opportunities in school activities. Many participated in extracurricular clubs and worked on the school publications, Shakerite and Semanteme, for the first time. Juniors took part in dramatic productions, with Susan Packer playing a major role as Emily in "Our Town," and the spring presidential elections gave them the opportunity for participation in school government. Also, an unusually large number of juniors starred on this year's varsity sports teams.

The junior year saw small, but important, changes in curriculum. Speech classes provided an outlet for creativity. This year's class was no exception when it came to devising clever demonstration speeches as evidenced by skis, violins, and various other paraphenalia seen in the corridors. The study of geometry trained for thinking in an orderly and logical fashion, a necessary quality in all aspects of academic life.

A change in attitude toward the future developed during the junior year. Juniors became vitally interested in their college aspirations, attending college conferences and taking a myriad of college entrance tests.

The juniors' attitudes towards Shaker changed also. From uncertain and eager sophomores, they became confident and sometimes nonchalant upperclassmen. More than anything else, the juniors this year realized how to use the opportunities open to them as individuals and as a class unit. Having gained this insight, the Class of 1966 is ready to assume the responsibilities of its biggest year.

Cold New World Melts Before Sophomores

Shaker seemed a cold new world to the class of 1967 as it entered in September, but this year's sophomores soon learned that this chilliness was but an illusion. Through participation in school activities, they began to feel shaker's warmth and to find their own spot in the life at Shaker.

The sophomore class confidence and spirit rose sharply when its team defeated the upperclassmen and teachers in the Derby Dance tricycle race early this fall. The sophomore spirit and ability, however, was not confined to tricycle races. Sophomore athletes such as Bob Hanna, Jack Drewry, and Gary Yarus contributed strongly to the varsity teams. The sophomore football team, backed faithfully by the class, turned out an impressive 4-5 record.

Soon sophomores began to see their newness as something exciting. Each day they saw new faces and discovered new aspects of Shaker. The science laboratories, once regarded with fear, soon became a stronghold of wonders awaiting discovery. Language lab sessions, too, became enriching experiences. They learned how to search for knowledge as well as bugs. They saw, too, the exciting opportunities awaiting them all in the varied extra-curricular program.

The newness of this year's class had special significance, because it was paralleled by the newness of our principal, Dr. Stavanage. The two felt a close relationship as they learned together what it means to be a Shakerite.

From the Hello Assembly to Honor Day, the sophomores' experiences widened and their spirit grew. Laboratories and three-hour finals became less ominous and new acquaintances blossomed into lasting friendships. The chill of newness wore off quickly and the sophomores soon found themselves in the glowing warmth of Shaker High.

"As we go rolling, rolling home . . ."

BOYS' SPORTS IS SHAKER. The ultimate goal of boys' sports is to combine successfully the prowess of the individual with the common determination and effort of the team. The unusual athletic ability possessed by a few must be complemented by the unified action of the team. Boys' sports, like every other facet of Shaker, is an area in which individuals can apply their ability, time, and effort to represent their school, and produce satisfying, successful results.

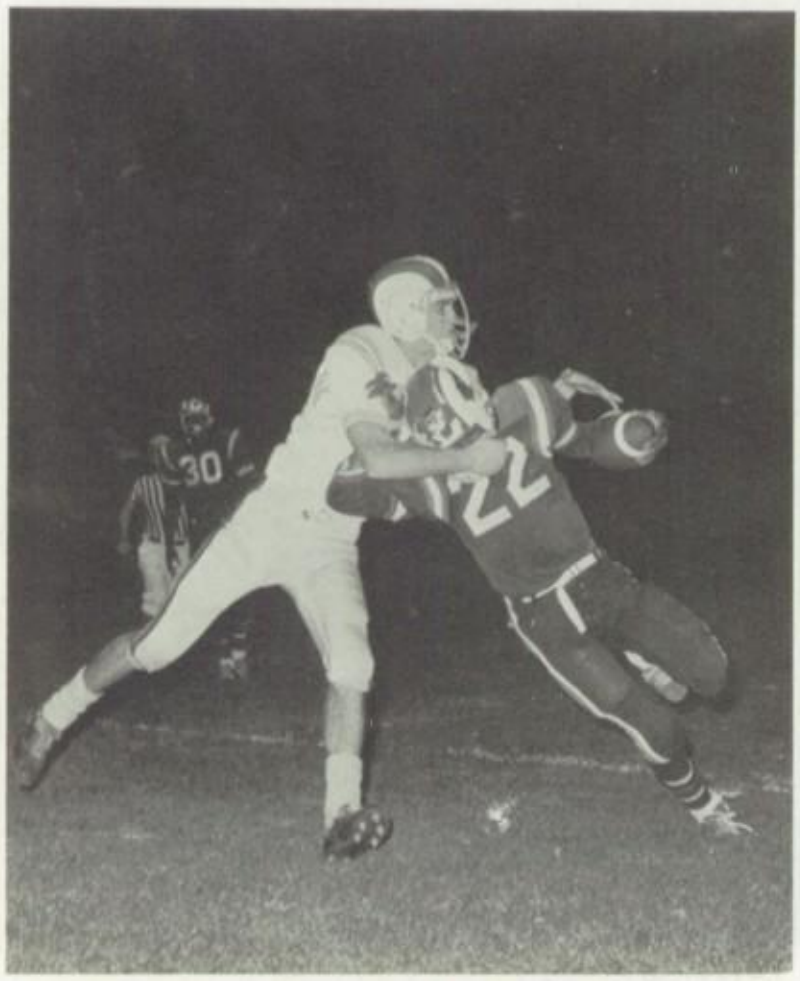
Workhorse Eleven Say "Nay" To Defeat



Web Young "guards" against long Shaw gain.

The Sannamen returned home the following Saturday to meet a large and powerful team from Lakewood. The greatly underestimated Rangers combined a powerful ground game with frequent and accurate aerials to gain a 16-0 victory. For the first time this season, size became the most important factor in a defeat.

The Raiders, finding themselves within reach of the L.E.L. title, played host to the highly-rated Euclid Panthers. A stout defense and an offense led ably by quarterback Web Young and halfback Dan Biello managed to come within an extra point conversion of tying the Panthers in a 14-12 decision.

The final two games of the season resembled one another a great deal as the team reached a peak in successive 36-12 and 29-6 victories over Parma and Brush, respectively. In both games the offensive line of Bob Rose, Bruce Hume, Al Waller, Randy Hughes, Ron Ratner, John Collier, and Bob Schumacher opened up gaping holes for Shaker's fine backs. In both games Dan Biello teamed with Rodd Heinlein in scoring on a fake extra point kick and a fake field goal, while Heinlein passed to "center" Rick Krumlauf on a blocked field goal for another six points.

Vito Gruttadauria, Shaker's toe specialist, kicked a long field goal and two extra points, while Rick Krumlauf gained close to 200 yards in a "Dream Team" performance against Brush.

Not content with an outstanding 5-4-1 season record, four of Shaker's gridders, John Collier, Web Young, Rick Krumlauf, and Bill Desberg, became All-L.E.L. team selections.

Sophomores Promise Future Varsity Talent

The Shaker sophomore football team, favored for the first time in many years by excellent size, started and finished well in a 4-5 season. Many of the sophomore boys will undoubtedly move into varsity positions in 1965, as the varsity loses through graduation a great number of players. Although in past years only about six boys have moved up to regular varsity positions, Coach Fred Heinlein hopes to increase this number considerably.

The young gridders played well in both independent games, defeating Maple Heights 8-6 and trouncing Bedford 14-0.

However, competition in L.E.L. became a different story, as the sophomores lost successive games to strong teams from Valley Forge, 16-0, Cleveland Heights, 16-6, and Shaw 8-0.

At this point Coach Heinlein emphasized hope, encouragement, and potential as the keys to success. The result was a very impressive 16-0 victory over the Lakewood Rangers. From this game on, the sophomores began to realize a fine potential.

Although the gridders fell to Euclid 8-0 and Parma, 24-16, the fine line and backfield play and healthy attitudes of Cliff Norwood, Angelo Valenti, Harvey Horowitz, Carl LoPresti, Don Hules, Doug Schofield, Lance Machamer, Mark Berenberg, Winslowe Levi, John Thiel, Cleve Broods, and almost twenty other boys encouraged Coach Heinlein. Both offense and defense clicked in the final game of the season, as Shaker startled Brush 20-0.

Shaker Harriers Post Matey Fine Times

A well-balanced and young Shaker cross-country team provided a very satisfying season for Coach Robert Rice. The Ricemen, paced by the almost unbeatable Chris Matey, compiled a respectable 4-5 record, although the Harriers could collect only two L.E.L. victories against five defeats, for a fourth place finish.

Led by the fine performance of captain Chris Matey, both on and off the cinders, Shaker opened the season with impressive victories over Cathedral Latin, 20-39, and perennially strong East Tech, 26-29. The Raiders, however, soon found that a well-balanced team often places second to a group with a number of super-stars, as in the losses to Valley Forge, 34-23, Cleveland Heights, 39-20, Lakewood, 33-24, and Parma 34-23.

The cross-country team did recover, however, to trounce the Shaw Cardinals, 15-48, and the Euclid Panthers in a close 25-31 meet, and to finish a fine seventh of 38 in the Euclid Relays.

Harried Harriers climb toward long-awaited finish.

Although Matey proved to be one of the finest 2-mile men in Ohio, posting a remarkable time of 10:18, the captain received a great deal of support throughout the season from a spirited flock of 2-milers, including Phil Jones, Greg Hollows, and Gil Cargill, recipient of the award for the most improved cross-countryman. Junior Bruce Holmes, Captain-elect for the 1965 season, and sophomores Mike Modlin, Joe Keithley, and Craig Vance, although young, performed admirably throughout the season.

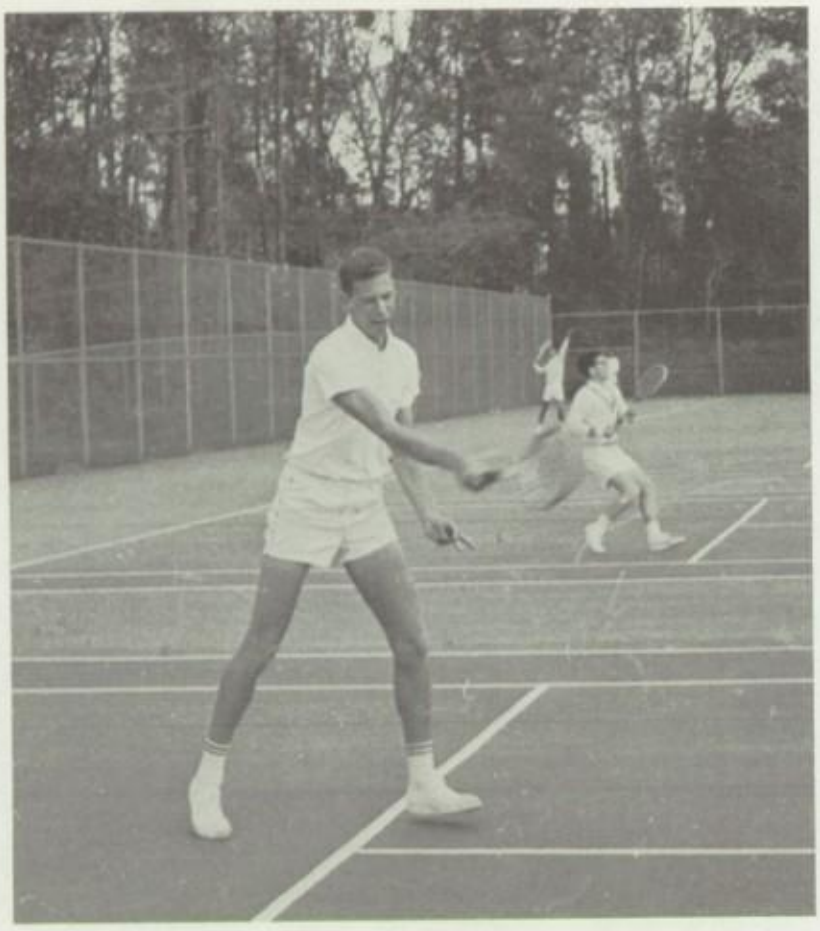
Encouraged by an unprecedented attendance figure which doubled the 1963 record of five spectators, the 1964 Shaker tennis team established itself as one of the finest area high school tennis teams on the basis of an outstanding 5-2 record in the Lake Erie League. Coach James Snavely's team recovered well from the disappointing record of 0-8 posted in the 1963 season, playing well above the pre-season predictions which pictured the Red Raiders as a .500 team.

Adverse weather delayed the opening of the 1964 season for more than a week. However, once the bad weather started to break, the netters began to break the service of the other L.E.L. squads. In the debut match against Valley Forge, Coach Snavely's boys scored an impressive 4-1 decision with victories in first, second, and third singles and first doubles. Cleveland Heights, the 1964 L.E.L. champion, completely reversed the situation, as the Tigers gained a 4-1 victory.

Second doubles, responsible for the only defeat against Valley Forge, snared Shaker's only victory at Cleveland Heights, a league power the past few years.

In a very satisfying and decisive victory, the raquetteers garnered four of the five individual matches against the Cardinals of Shaw. Utilizing the momentum gained at Shaw, Shaker shut out Lakewood the following week as Dana Lowry won first singles, Tom Handel second singles, and Doug Broder third singles, while captain Scott Siegler teamed with junior Alan Geismer to overpower Lakewood in first doubles, and Tom Gerson and Barry Kramer captured second doubles.



Dana Lowry demonstrates a strong forehand

The following week the team traveled to meet the Euclid Panthers. Prepared both physically and mentally, the netters emerged victorious in a hard-fought and memorable 3-2 decision over the spirited Panthers.

Inspired by the successive victories over Shaw, Lakewood, and Euclid, the high-riding Raiders faced the Arcs of Brush High School in a decisive match the following week. For the fourth consecutive week Shaker's doubles strength, provided throughout the year by Siegler, Geismer, Gerson, Kramer, Bob Noll, and Aaron Miller, proved the significant factor in a close 3 to 2 victory.

With the Lake Erie League title within reach, Coach Snavely's boys traveled to Parma for the final match of the season. After almost three hours on the courts, the Raiders had split four decisions, while Tom Handel and his Redman opponent had been stopped by the bad weather. Handel returned the following day only to lose a fine match in three sets.

Hopes are high for the 1965 season as only four boys from this young team, Lowry, Siegler, Kramer, and Noll, will be graduated.

Last-Place Cagers Tame Shaw, Heights

Looking at the season record of the 1964-65 basketball team, a person cannot fairly evaluate the success or failure of that team. The true fan must, instead of looking at the won-lost column, examine each game and see how it was played. If one does this, he finds numerous games lost only by a few points, as well as victories against Parma, Shaw, and Heights, which make him proud he goes to Shaker High.

For many years, Shaker has employed a "slow down" style of basketball. Coach Heinlen opened the season with this type of offense. Lacking great height, the Raiders were forced into a situation of making a high percentage of shots or losing the game. Bob Kidd and Marty Thomas were the sharpshooters, while Rodd Heinlen handled the responsibility of ball control. The problem of the season seemed to be getting Kidd and Thomas "on the mark" in the same evening. When this happened, the possibility of an upset increased.

The Shaker quintet opened the season against a powerful West Tech team. Games such as this quickly matured an inexperienced Raider team that included only four returning lettermen, among them only one returning starter. This maturing process soon yielded recognizable results. In the weeks following West Tech, the fearless five lost a hearbreaker to Valley Forge and then staged one of its upsets, a victory over the eventual LEL Co-Champ, Parma. This exciting contest saw the lead exchange hands every quarter of play. The final verdict was in Shaker's favor, 54-51. Marty Thomas and Bob Schumacher both reached double figures. The game was placed out of reach by a foul shot in the last seconds by Rodd Heinlen.

In the following weeks the Shaker quintet was in trouble. The Raiders could not find the range; this means disaster for any cage team. Drawing from his years of experience, Coach Heinlen found a type of defense to offset the offensive deficiencies. The Raider five harrassed the opposing team by a full-court, man-for-man press, while using the deliberate offense. Because the last quarter at Lakewood found the Raiders trailing by ten points, Coach Heinlen decided to employ his new strategy. With the press working extremely well and Bob Kidd and Rodd Heinlen tossing accurately, the Shaker five came from a ten point deficit to a stunning 78-71 victory. Coach Heinlen's boys did not lose this winning style and the following week rolled to victory over a weak Bedford team.

League-leading Shaw and arch-rival Heights were scheduled for successive home game appearances. With the height addition in the person of Dana Garfield, the Shaker cagers were banking on a fast-break offense to overpower their formidable opponents. The contest against Shaw saw the lead change hands again and again. The final verdict was in favor of the hustling, spirited Raiders, 66-57. This defeat dropped the high-flying Cardinals out of sole possession of first place. Then Heights moved in for what is always a hard fought game. Behind the shooting and rebounding of Bob Kidd, Tom Paige and Dana Garfield, Shaker rolled to a 81-74 decision. The hoopsters had ended the season, which up to this point then has been sub par, with a blaze of glory.

Because of the great number of experience of returning cagers, Shaker will have a strong foundation upon which to base a championship team next year. Rodd Heinlen, Tom Paige, Marty Thomas, Bob Schumacher, Dana Garfield, John Pearson and Eugene Curtain lead the parade of Raiders who will wreak havoc in the LEL next year.

Sophs Recover for Fine Second Half

The junior varsity cagers found the initial road to victory a difficult one, but they worked as a team toward the end of the season to salvage a respectable 7-11 record, although the L.E.L. record was disappointing 4-10.

Independent rival West Tech and league opponents Valley Forge, Lakewood, Parma, Euclid, Brush, and Shaw all solved the Shaker offense and penetrated its defense for solid victories, while only Maple Heights felt the developed strength of the youngsters. The hoopsters recovered to upset Cleveland Heights in both contests and Bedford, Parma, Brush, and Garfield once each outing in the second half of the season. The second half, however, also included losses to Valley Forge, Lakewood, Euclid, and Shaw.

The sophomores, led by the excellent play of Clarence Daniels, Lee Harvey, Jim Robson, Larry Hines, and Tony Havel, revealed exceptional talent and encouraging potential for varsity purposes.

Coach Al Raymond points to both Clarence Daniels and Lee Harvey as excellent prospects for varsity duty in the 1965-66 campaign. Daniels led the team in scoring throughout the year and contributed a great deal to the final success of the season, a satisfying 61-58 victory over Cleveland Heights.

Wrestlers' Hopes for Title Pinned

The combination of almost unbeatable strength in five weight divisions, solid depth in five other divisions, and a weakness in only the heavyweight division proved to be Shaker's success formula for the 1964-1965 season. Sporting a season record of 9-2-1, the wrestlers also boasted a fine 4-2 Lake Erie League record, which earned the matmen third place in the league standings, one game behind Euclid and Valley Forge. Shaker's great strength was provided by Phil Wolkin, 8-2-2 at 103 pounds, Jerry Peterson, 8-1-2 at 120, Don Loveman, 9-1-2 at 138, Shelly Pollock, 11-1 at 154, and a 11-0-1 record by the 175 pounder. Shaker's other starters and consistent performers include Jim Polster, 5-3-2 at 112, Roger Bamberger, 4-6-1 at 127, Henry Berman, 4-4 at 133, Don Black, 6-4-2 at 145, and Ron Ratner, 8-4 at 165. Only the heavyweight position proved to be a real problem as four different boys, Clint Krislov, John Schofield, Ken Jaffe, and Jack Rollins posted a combined record of 1-9-2. John Schofield scored the pin, while Clint Krislov earned the split decisions. Other starters included John Webb at 120, Howard Falcon at 133, Tom Stepp at 112, and John Rothschild at 127.

The Shaker grapplers, coached by Ed Zednik, opened the 1964-65 campaign with a tight 19-18 triumph over St. Joseph. Although Shaker scored no pins, it did record five decisions, Polster at 112, Peterson at 120, Bamberger at 127, Pollock at 154, and one at 175.

J.V. Wrestlers Promise Future Talent

The 1964-1965 junior varsity wrestling campaign already has Coach Ed Zednik seriously thinking about a league title in 1966. Not only did the junior varsity post a noteworthy 10-2 record, but also this squad has promoted a few boys to active varsity duty.

Don Schneider (103), captain Tom Stepp (112), and John Webb (120) often gave Shaker an eventually insurmountable lead. While both Stepp and Webb spent a part of the season on the varsity mat, Schneider succeeded in gaining vitally important pins throughout the entire J.V. season.

Wrestlers in the heavier weight classes, John Rothchild (127), Chuck Mahoney (133), Jerry Falcon (138), Paul Herzegh (145), Dave Wolff (154), Mark Emery (165), Don Elfvin (175), and Ken Jaffe and Clint Krislov at heavyweight often increased this lead.

Tankers Follow Heights, Lakewood to Third

Hampered by irregular performances and only occasional moments of realized potential, Shaker's mermen posted a mediocre 9-7 record for the 1964-1965 season. A 6-4 season record in the Lake Erie League earned the swim team a third place finish behind state champion Cleveland Heights and perennial power Lakewood. The team, although it consisted of nine seniors, seven juniors and three sophomores, lacked the depth so essential to a successful dual meet season. The stable performances of seniors Rennie Crane, Bobby Haas, Tom Marshall, Web Young, and Pete Snedecor contributed a great deal to the nine dual meet victories. The greatest weapon Coach John Paul Stark sported this season was his relay strength. The medley relay, consisting of backstroker Bob Power, breastroker Alan Gross, butterflyer Tom Marshall, and freestyler Web Young earned ten first place finishes, while freestylers David Crane, Alan Gross, Rennie Crane, Larry Terkel, Web Young, and Larry Mueller contributed 12 firsts. Individually, breastroke-freestyler Rennie Crane and distance man Bobby Haas often contributed double-winner performances to gain for Shaker 20 points. Captain Crane demonstrated record-breaking form in almost every meet of the year, while Haas stroked through the 200 and 400-yard freestyles with the expected consistency.

Shaker's hopes burst in the first meet when the swimmers succumbed to the Lakewood Rangers, 54-41. The loss of the medley relay crippled Shaker's hopes even more than was expected. Led by the double victories of both Haas and Crane the following week, Shaker reversed the tables as well as the score in the Kent State meet, by upsetting the Staters 54-41. The freestyle relay of Alan Gross, Larry Mueller, Larry Terkel, and Web Young garnered the decisive seven points.

The highlight of Shaker's second win, a 67-28 trouncing of Warren, was Rennie Crane's upset of Stephen Job in the 60-yard freestyle sprint effected with a pool and school record, 27.4. Eight point finishes in both distance freestyle events clinched it.

Back in League competition Shaker defeated Euclid, 51-44. With the score tied at 44-44, the freestyle relay of Larry Terkel, Larry Mueller, Web Young, and Rennie Crane, outstroked the Euclid quartet in its own specialty and its own pool.

The 3-1 tankers then faced the Arcs of Brush High School at the Coliseum. For the fourth consecutive week Bobby Haas stroked through both the 200 and 400-yard freestyles in winning form to add 10 points to the Shaker total of 58. The Arcs collected only 37 points.

Driven by the momentum of four consecutive victories, the tankers downed Shaw's Cardinals by the score of 49-46. The clutch performance of the meet was Tom Marshall's upset victory over Cardinal Bob Webster in the 100-yard butterfly.

Although the Red Raiders bowed before the eventual state champion Cleveland Heights by the score of 60-35, they salvaged a measure of glory with a record performance by the medley relay quartet of Bob Power, Tom Marshall, Alan Gross, and Web Young.

Unable to recover in time for the Rangers of Lakewood, Shaker lost again 48-47, despite the performance of double winner and eventual state champion Rennie Crane. Pete Snedecor's fine effort in the 400-yard freestyle fell a second shy of his Ranger opponent.

The Raiders then traveled to Akron Firestone High School only to incur a 52-43 loss.

With its record reduced to a bare .500 percentage, the undaunted tankers defeated state power Akron Buchtel, as depth proved the key to the Shaker victory. Divers Bill Shattuck and Jerry Florian accounted for an unexpected six points.

For the second time, the Brush Arcs proved to be no test for Shaker's poolers, the score: 71-24. Pete Snedecor emerged, won both the 200 and 400 yard events. Snedecor closed in on the two minute mark in the 200.

Berea High School, an eventual power in the state championships, ended the victories by a stunning 61-34 dunking of the Starkmen. Shaker's medley relay lost a close race to a record-breaking foursome from Berea, although Tom Marshall starred in an upset victory in the 100 fly, while Snedecor repeated his double victories in the 200 and 400.

Inspired by the fine medley relay performance of Bob Power, Web Young, Alan Gross, and Tom Marshall, Shaker upset the highly-touted Panthers from Euclid 52-43. The meet highlighted the sub-two minute 200-yard freestyle by Pete Snedecor and the great clutch victory of Rennie Crane over Neal Wade of Euclid in a tense 100-yard breastroke.

In one of Shaker's best dual meet performances, swimmers secured third place in the L.E.L. with a 57-38 decision over Shaw. Bobby Haas's 400-yard freestyle, and an exceptional performance by Web Young in the freestyle relay, became the margin of victory.

The confident Raiders, however, were humbled in a 66-29 defeat by the undefeated Heights Tigers. Only Captain Rennie Crane could capture a first place finish, doing so in the 100-yard breastroke.

In the L.E.L. meet, the medley relay of Bobby Haas, Alan Gross, Tom Marshall, and Web Young gained a third medal. Ironically, Rennie Crane won the 50-yard freestyle but finished second in his state monopoly, the 100-yard breastroke. David Crane earned a third place medal in the 200-yard individual medley, while Tom Marshall stroked through the finest race of his life with a peak performance time of :56.6 in the 100-yard butterfly. Marshall's efforts earned him a silver medal and a school record. Bobby Haas, his time improving each week after a five-week layoff, posted a 4:23 400-yard freestyle for second place honors.

Only four survived the District eliminations. Rennie was the only boy to qualify in both 50-yard sprint and 100-yard breastroke. Bobby Haas dropped his time to 4:18.6 in the 400, finishing third. Tom Marshall captured a third place finish in the 100 fly, while junior Fred Arsham qualified fifth in the 100-yard breastroke.

Although Fred Arsham and Tom Marshall did not qualify in the State finals the following week at Columbus, both boys earned important points for Shaker. Rennie Crane and Bobby Haas, both All-Ohio selections, represented Shaker in the State Finals. Haas upset several boys in the finals en route to a second-place finish and a school record performance of 4:10.8.

Finally, Rennie Crane established beyond a doubt his reputation as one of the best Ohio high school swimmers ever to compete, with a third place in the 50-yard freestyle and a state championship record performance of 1:03.6 in the 100-yard breastroke.

Sophomores Repeat as L.E.L. Co-Champs

For the second consecutive year junior varsity tankers clinched at least a share of the Lake Erie League dual meet championship. Finishing the season with an 8-3 record, they tied for first place honors with the Cardinals of Shaw. An opening loss to Lakewood and later losses to Shaw and independent rival Berea spotted an otherwise perfect record.

Balance proved to be the key factor throughout the season, as the splashers boasted relay stregth and depth in individual events. Loaded with the sprint freestyle talents of Rick Rehm, Jack Cornell, co-captain Dutch Henke, Ford Harris, and Bill Rison, and the distance freestyle efforts of co-captain Karl Johnson, Jim Lieberman, and Harris, the JV dominated five events.

Backstrokers Bill Rison and Marshall Cohen often provided high places and important points, while breastroker John Turnbull and butterflyers Ford Harris and Howie Rose added points in other strokes.

High point of the season for Coach Doug Whitaker's boys occurred at the Cleveland Heights pool in the final meet. After a loss to Shaw High the week before, the mermen had to upset the high-flying Tigers to gain a share of the league championship. The lead in the meet changed hands several times; in fact, the final relay decided the meet. Shaker's loaded relay proved too powerful for the Tigers, as Shaker gained its first L.E.L. title in 1965.

For the second consecutive year Shaker's intramural season was based on the individual gym classes. The physical education staff selected the intramural teams in both football and volleyball and arranged tournaments to determine class and school champions. This system allows for both increased student participation in the intramural program and competition among teams of comparable ability. An entire season of intramural football reduced the number of teams in each grade to four. The four teams in each class then competed for the sophomore, junior, and senior championships. Finally, the three champions competed in a playoff in which the junior class, captained by Larry Sarkozy, captured the intramural crown.

The volleyball tournament, which followed a similar elimination process, crowned its champion in late spring.

The intramural basketball teams, formed on a voluntary basis, engaged in a tournament won by the senior team of Dan Biello, Bob Novasel, John Nagelis, Rick Krumlauf, Jim Jones, Doug Beal, Tom Rison, and Bruce Collins. This group then teamed with the J.V. basketball squad and faced the faculty in the highlight of the intramural season, a 72-71 upset of the hard-breathing teachers.

What is spirit? No poet or philosopher has yet captured the true essence of or atmosphere implied by the word. But Shaker's cheerleaders have in all respects buoyed up the formerly lax, enervated student body and inspired each Shakerite with a common loyalty and pride. The 1964-'65 squad, captained by Jody Bernon and Julie Suk, helped to direct the voices of spectators in support of varsity football, basketball, and wrestling teams. The end result was, of course, a revitalized spirit, a new Shaker.

whites whitewash reds to climax stick season

Autumn in all its resplendent glory would not be complete without field hockey, the traditional fall sport which Shaker girls find a rewarding and deeply satisfying outlet for their physical energies. The scoop, the flick, and the lunge are only a few of the skills which many attempt to master and which some nearly perfect. Enthusiasm plays a large part in the intramural, interclass, and interscholastic program, and improvement gathers its meed in the annual red-and-white game in which the most-improved sophomore, j u n i o r, and senior girls oppose forces. The white team vanquished its red foes in this 1964-'65 season.

Shaker's Stroking and Service Superlative

With the emphasis primarily on the individual swimmer, Shaker's aquatic program expanded this year to include the Water Safety Instructor's course for qualified seniors. Secondarily, the group received emphasis with the opportunity for membership in either of Shaker's two swim clubs, the Sharcs or Swim Leaders.

The Sharcs presented a unique pageant this spring exhibiting their stroking talent as well as their long preparation which involved scenery and costume design, selection of appropriate music, and complex and entertaining routines.

The Swim Leaders, a service organization rather than a show group, served the school and community in various ways. They acted as hostesses and scorers for the varsity and junior varsity swimming meets, sponsored an intramural swimming meet in the fall, assisted in teaching swimming classes, and treated the varsity team to a dinner at the end of the season. In addition, they donated staples to a destitute family at Thanksgiving.

Bouncing, Dribbling, Juggling, Passing, and Shooting Skills Spark Basketball Season

Leslie Jaffe outjumps the opposition for possession of the ball.

Basketball provided excitement and exercise for all comers this year as intramural, interclass, and varsity teams enjoyed fierce competition on the court.

The interest in intramural basketball decreased slightly from that of previous years, but the interclass contest retained its fever pitch of the past to climax the season. Biz Leigh's senior team defeated the juniors on Friday, April 2, in a hard-fought 26-16 battle.

Varsity basketball was the most improved facet of the sport this school year. Although the sophomores did not participate in any interscholastic games, their coach, Mrs. Lebit, developed some of their potential by pitting them against the juniors and seniors. Junior and senior varsity squads met three times a week to prepare themselves for inter-school games with Shaw, Euclid, West Geauga, Bedford, Chardon, and Warrensville High Schools.

An outstanding aspect of varsity basketball was the innovation concerning selection of players. In past years girls were chosen from those who attended a series of try-out sessions. This year, all those who were interested enough to attend all the sessions were on the team. Those who actually participated in the games were the most proficient on the squad.

What is a Girls' Leader? Is she debonaire, witty, dramatic? She is all of these things at one time or another, for as a member of the Leaders' Club she may be called upon to supervise a physical education class, score, time, or referee an intramural game, or bake two dozen bookies for a bake sale. In addition, the leader has a working knowledge of the three major sports, field hockey, volleyball, and basketball, in each of which she must pass a written test to gain initial membership in the club and to remain on the club's roster.

The Girls' Leaders Club of 1964-'65 served the school and community diversely. The spring "Happiness" dance, a picnic for orphans from the Hough area, a dinner for participants in varsity sports, the annual Awards Tea in May, and numerous bake sales all trace their source to the girls in white.

Girls' Interests Congeal in Conglomeration of Activities

The sportswoman found a myriad of activities this year in which she could try her skill. Fencing, tumbling, archery, badminton, bowling, golf, and tennis provided the athlete with an opportunity to become adept at individual sports. Softball, soccer, and speedball tested the ability of the team to work as a unit.

This variety of outlets for physical energy was not, however, limited to the gym class, but expanded to the afterschool program. Fencing, Tumbling, Badminton, and Tennis Clubs had large numbers of adherents, and for the first time speedball was offered as a supplement to the intramural program. Of course, spring intramurals wouldn't have been complete without softball, the annual favorite.

Dancers Demonstrate Dynamics

The reason for the dance club's success may have been due, in part, to the two student directors, Betsy Weisberger and Jane Kleinman, who assumed complete direction.

The girls' weekly meeting had four areas of concentration: preliminary exercise, execution of dance steps, rehearsal and practice of set dance sequences, and improvisation. Improvisation involved impromptu choreography to music or movement expressing or illustrating words, color, texture, or some specific artwork.

Members brought in original choreography and also attempted to learn some of the fundamentals of labanotation (dance "alphabet").

more bounce to the ounce

The art of trampolining is not quite as easy as it looks and takes a great deal of coordination as well as an eye for safety, for unsupervised bouncing could result in mishap or serious injury.

Boys and girls have been able to perfect a variety of stunts, commencing with a seat drop or front drop to the more difficult flip or branny. The repertoire of possible gyrations includes the turn table, roller, dead cat, swivel hips, pull over, and combinations of these.

The interest in trampolining as an afterschool activity has been increasing, and rightly so, for physical fitness plays an important role in the lives of all Americans.

ACTIVITIES ARE SHAKER. Singing or speaking, swimming or skiing, sudsing cars or staging plays—the Shaker student is given every opportunity to develop skills not touched upon by academic training. In a school so intensely academic, it is imperative to maintain a healthy balance and perspective by complementing studies with pleasureable, rewarding activities.

Starting off with a shaky footing, the Council nearly spoiled their chances for a profitable dance. However, fresh thinking developed the idea of an interclass tricycle race and the Shaker Derby Dance was on its way to fun and success.

More important than money were the new ideas that flowed into Council. Ileen Kurlander and the Honor Committee struggled through heavy opposition to establish the Honor System on a trial basis. The annoying student parking problem was finally solved. Ron Ratner and the Safety Committee initiated the disliked but effective policies of allowing driving on the basis of need and assigning numbered spaces.

The Council as a whole assisted the school in many aspects. The representatives sold activity tickets, Gristmills, dance tickets, sports tickets, and still found time to inform their homerooms of current happenings. The bi-weekly homeroom meeting became an incentive for creative thinking through an extensive evaluation process led by Alan Kolod. Putting aside some of the more serious problems, the Council turned to entertainment. The members staged a pot luck supper for themselves and combined with Social Council to make the February Fun Fest and Interclass Tournament a highlight of the year. In all its functions, Student Council strove to mold the many students of the school into a unified body of proud, spirited Shakerites.

Social Council Whirls

"How old did you say you were, little girl?"

Events began with a bang this year as enthusiastic Shakerites jammed the gym for the annual kick-off party. After this highly successful event, the Social Council sponsored the Fall Sports Dance, the Christmas Dance, and many other events.

Serving in her second year as Shaker's Social Director, Mrs. Thelka Wiley lent a helping hand to officers Chuck Bauernschmidt, president; Helen Kronenberg, vice-president; Joan Borod, recording secretary; Sue Shakely, corresponding secretary; and Sally Kulber, treasurer.

"Hi! I'm Chuck Bauernschmidt."
"Es freut mich, Ihre Bekanntschaft zu machen."

"Twice as good, twice as often" became the motto of the Social Council as it opened the snack bar on both Tuesday and Wednesday. Shaker AFS student Mary Jo Bishop returned in 1965 and exchanged stories of her experiences in Australia with Peter Stahlberg, our AFS student from Germany. Both Mary Jo and Peter helped Social Council promote the AFS open houses after some home basketball games.

A Cappella Has Wunderbar Year

"Another opening of another show" proved to be an apt watchword for Shaker's '64-'65 A Cappella Choir. Early in the year, it performed both at home and away, entertaining listeners in school assemblies and at Plymouth Church. On December 18, along with the Concert Choir, professional soloists, and a professional organist, the A Cappella Choir presented the Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah under the direction of Mr. Reynold Ellis. In May, the A Cappella performed Cole Porter's Kiss Me, Kate to capacity audiences.

Gristmill Shows the Shaker Scene

"Unity from Diversity" is not an easy theme to carry through a yearbook, as this year's Gristmill staff wearily discovered. Thinking about the theme, cropping photographs, writing copy, and dealing with a sub-theme of "Hands" occupied every free moment of the Gristmill staff's time. Whenever work became unbearable and deadlines loomed near, the able leadership of Co-Editors Barbara Rosenberg and Chayim Herzig and Faculty Adviser George Starr helped the staff to maintain a steady excellence in its writing.

Gristmill editors discuss a vital issue with Mr. Starr.

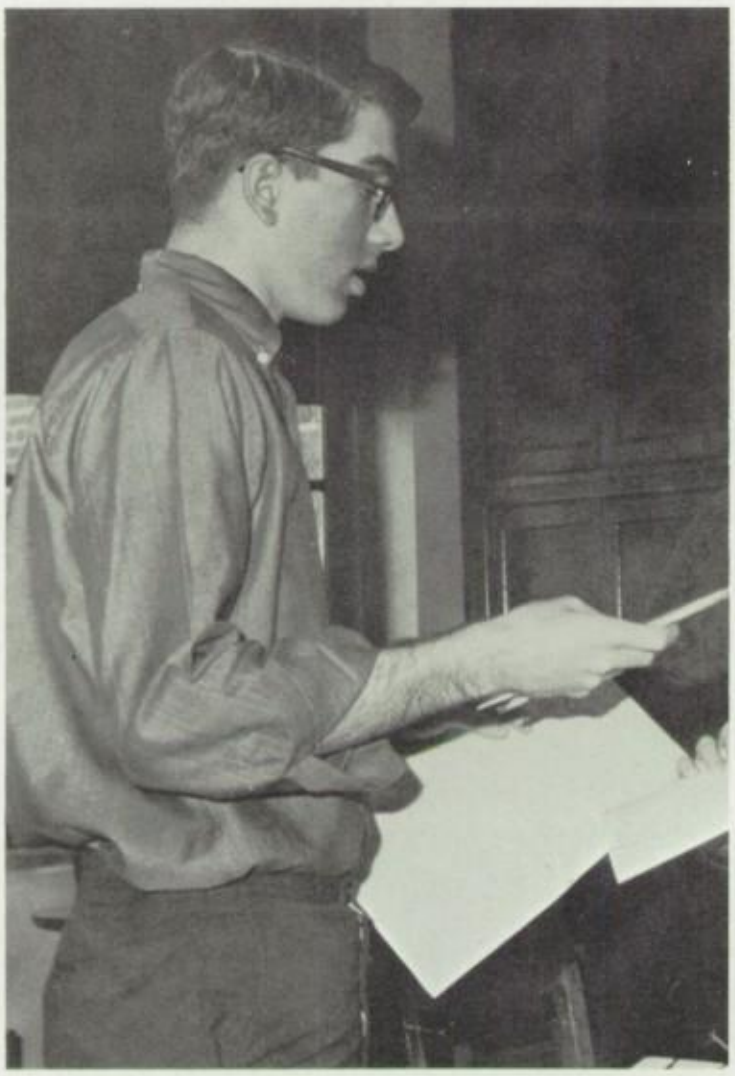
Shakerite Stimulates Student Opinion



"Who's been chewing the editor-in-chief's pencil?"

"Have you not learn'd great lessons from those who . . . dispute the passage with you?" Living up to these words of Walt Whitman, Jeff Pollock and the Shakerite staff broadened the Shakerite's editorial policy. School president Mel Dunn contributed biweekly articles on subjects ranging from homeroom communication to intramural participation. An editorial by Terrence Pollack, "Integration in Shaker," comprised one of the regular teacher-opinion articles. Shaker AFS student Mary Jo Bishop wrote of the mild winter in Australia. Former Shakerite editor-in-chief Willy Kahrl described life at Yale for prospective students.

The Shakerite came out more often this year, with alternating four and six page issues printed every other week. This year, Cleveland area newspaper readers learned of Shaker's athletic endeavors through the pen of sports editor Alan Geismer.

Semanteme Adds Refinement to the 3 R's

Guided by Editor David Stein and Faculty Adviser Paul Wild, the Semanteme enriched Shaker's cultural life. Not only did the literary magazine provide an outlet for students' original poems, essays, and short stories in English, but it also contained a section for foreign language compositions. The two issues published this year contained the best of many selections submitted by students. The monthly "Calendar," compiled by the staff, gave interested Shakerites a listing of cultural events around the Cleveland area. In addition, the Semanteme sponsored student art shows in the Ely Gallery.

Beneficent Boosters

Silence prevails where Andy Hibshman rules.

Clanking trays and dropped food. Noisy corridors and weak excuses. Pink hall passes and green demerit slips. All these elements and many more provide a daily challenge to Shaker's Booster Force. Whether in the halls or cafeteria, the boosters play the vital role of helping Shakerites to help themselves; sometimes they assist with a little more than gentle persuasion.

Captained by Doug Beal, the boosters have taken on added responsibility this year. The extension of the up and down stairway plan to include the third floor was diligently initiated and enforced by the boosters. Even after-school functions like the P.T.A. Open House were included in their tasks. However, the quiet halls and peaceful cafeteria at Shaker are the best tribute to Shaker's unknown watchdogs, the boosters.

Period captains Tim Bannon, Jim Ahern, Anne Scarff, Gordon Harper, Don Black, Sam Guren, and Gil Cargill helped to provide organization for this year's expanded force.

And Assistants Aid Shaker

Always there, wherever and whenever anyone needs help—this could be the motto of the many assistants at Shaker. In the main office and the attendance offices, student assistants take messages and run errands. Library assistants replace books and magazines piled in endless stacks. The Cafeteria assistants satisfy the appetites of hungry students by replenishing the fast-diminishing food supplies. Throughout the school the assistants are at work—proof that Shakerites are willing to give some of their time to help each other.

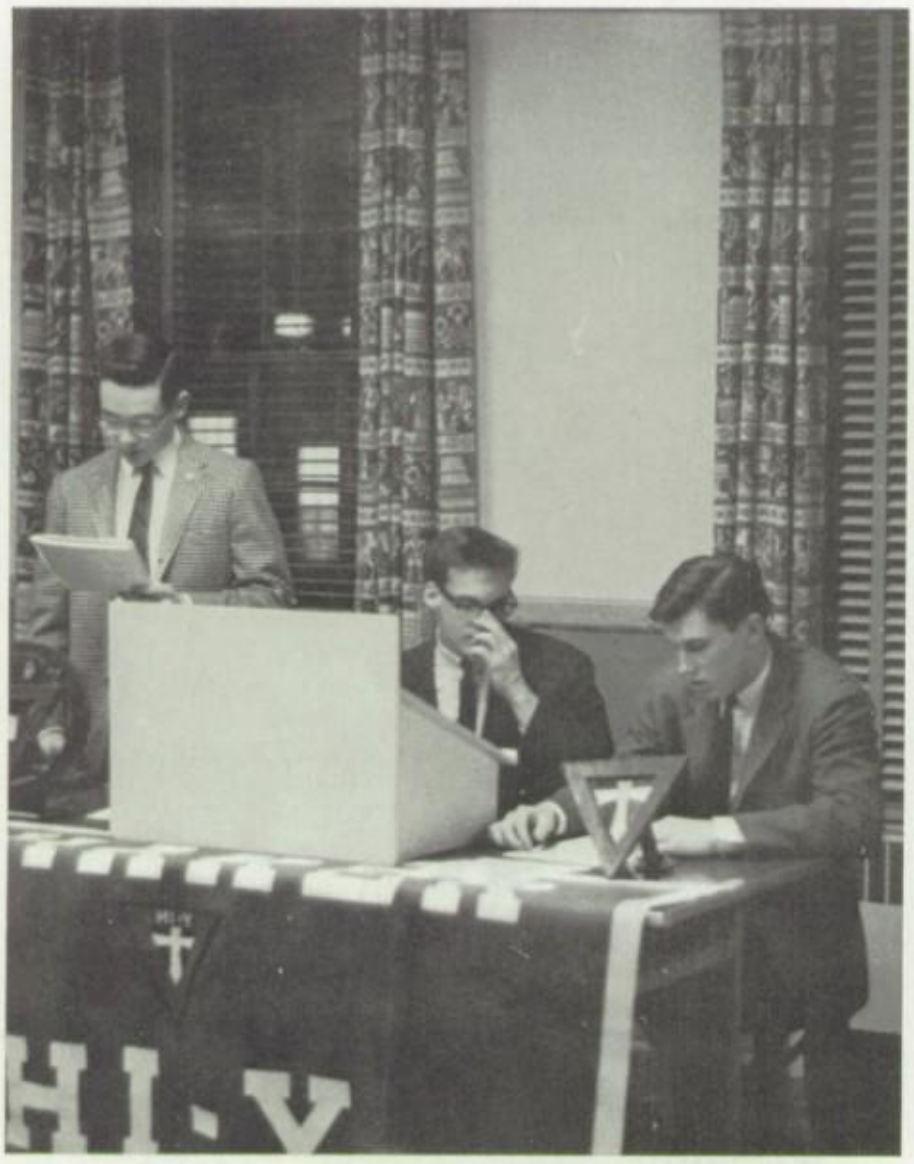
Hi-Y and Y-Teens



Hi-Y officers prepare for another meeting.

Twenty-five boys met at the Heights YMCA on alternate Wednesdays throughout the school year, to draw up plans for a year of service to others. They sponsored two dances, the annual Hi-Y Fall Ball at school and a spring dance at the Y. The boys set up the Bloodmobile for the Red Cross at Moreland School once a month. Some of their bi-weekly meetings were programs open to interested students. One such program featured films of the Heights football game, and another introduced Plain Dealer cartoonist Dick Dugan, who gave cartoons to each person there. In April Clyde Crouch, James Lesnick, Tim Bannon, and John Nagelis represented Shaker at a student government program in Columbus. At the capital representatives from all over the state acted as a junior legislature and presented bills which, if passed, were given to the regular legislation for consideration. In this way the Hi-Y served not only our school but also our state.

Serve Shaker Proudly

Service to others is the primary function of the Y-Teens, and its eighty-five members certainly achieved their purpose this year. The senior Y-Teens concentrated on helping under-privileged children. As part of their plan they canvassed their neighborhoods for trick-or-treat candy on Halloween and presented their collections to an orphanage. Then, before Christmas, each girl made several stuffed animals which she donated to children in hospitals. A spring picnic the Y-Teens sponsored delighted the children from a settlement house.

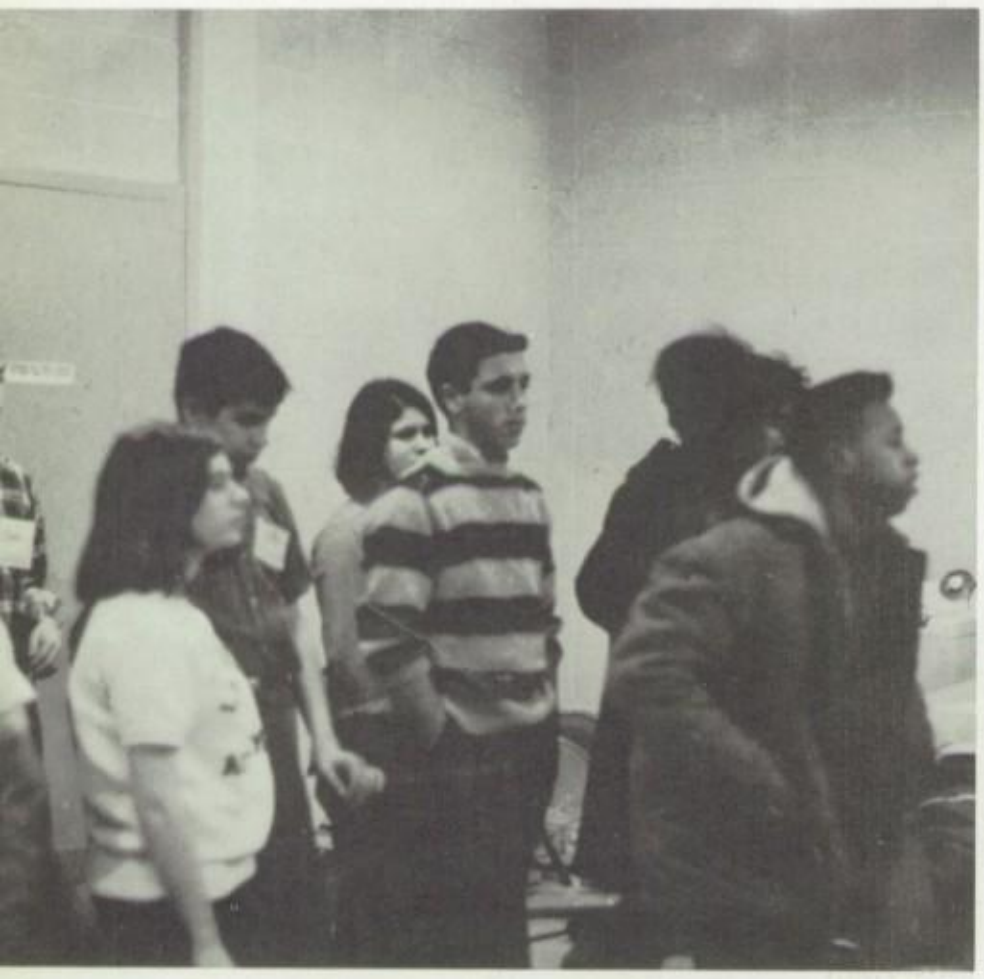
The girls worked in conjunction with the YWCA to achieve these goals and others such as a splash party and a spring fashion show.

Y-Teens serve Shaker.

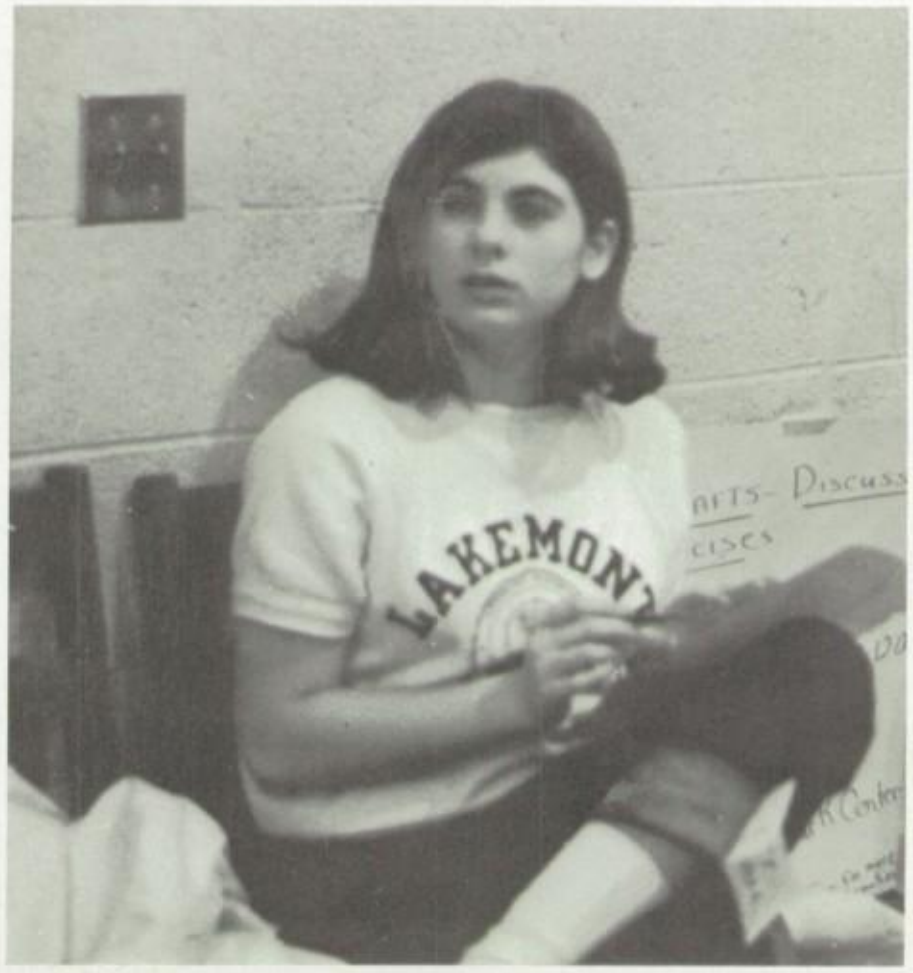
Brotherhood Our Theme

YOUTH COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS OFFICERS—Jackie Schloss, Nancy Michael, Alan Eden, Louise Levy.*

Before Shakerites consider worldwide difficulties, they must perhaps solve the problems of prejudice which occur closer home. Youth Council on Human Relations is devoted to promoting better relations between people of different races, religions, and nationalities. Co-sponsoring the Presidential debate with the Junior Council on World Affairs, the members found an excellent opportunity for understanding other people's opinions. In February, interested students and members journeyed to a settlement house in the Hough area to revitalize community cooperation. The last week of the month was designated Brotherhood Week and the club kept the student body aware of their responsibility to their fellow man. Posters, P.A. Announcements, and tags helped spread a friendly atmosphere through our corridors. Rabbi Horowitz concluded the week with a most unusual and enlightening presentation of man's basic responsibilities. Youth Council on Human Relations made the realization of brotherhood a prime consideration at Shaker.



Youth Council undertakes the Hough area project.



President Nancy Michael charts out brotherhood plans.

The situation in Viet Nam or Moscow became as familiar to certain Shakerites as the score of the Heights' game was to the football players. The Junior Council on World Affairs, led by a new adviser, Mr. Terence Pollock, participated in many programs designed to arouse interest in the international situation. In the fall representatives from both the Goldwater and Johnson camps debated the merits of their respective candidates before many interested students. Later in the year Professor Hochner of Fenn University, a former officer in the Naval Counter-Insurgency Forces, spoke about guerrilla warfare in Southeast Asia. Eight members attended the Cleveland Council on World Affairs meeting concerning the military and economic status of the countries in the Atlantic Alliance. However, the most significant event of the year was the mock United Nations held in April. Shakerites represented views of Thailand, Turkey, and Haiti on topics such as the Malasian Crisis and control over conventional weapons. Through discussions such as these, the Junior Council gained necessary experience dealing with problems of world wide scope.

Pre-Med Plays Pied Piper

Pre-med officers Randy Meyer, Gordon Harper, Jeff Klein, and Terri Evans examine the club's research rat.

Pre-Med Club this year fulfilled its purpose of giving an insight into and knowledge of medicine to those students interested in pursuing this career. Dr. Frederick Cross opened the year with a talk on open-heart surgery, after which Dr. Howard Taylor talked about hypnosis as a treatment. A visit to Cleveland Clinic finished the first semester. Faye C. Reed, a nurse, was the first speaker in the second semester. The rest of the semester was devoted to the club's research project of determining the effects of estrogen, a hormone, on a female rat.

This year the Science Club presented a full schedule of speakers for its small but active membership. Many field trips highlighted the year for the Natural History Club. Fulfilling the club's purpose, which is to provide opportunities for each member to develop his interests in the out-of-doors, were excursions to Mentor Headlands, Fern Lake, Holden Arboretum, and a weekend Southern Ohio trip to many state parks. Russell Hansen of the Natural Science Museum discussed pollution with the group, and many members of the club presented individual projects at the club's biweekly meeting.

Math Stimulates Functional Knowledge

MATH CLUB OFFICERS—James D. Bristol, Sponsor, Norman Klivans, Ted Einstein, Linda Reisenfeld, Craig Stout.

The Shaker Mathematics Society sought to acquaint its members with both the useful and the recreational aspects of the "queen of sciences." The weekly programs included guest speakers, recorded lecturers, student addresses, and challenge problems. Topics ranged from mathematical intuition to cosmic rays to solitaire—Euclid style. The members, under the leadership of president Ted Einstein and teacher sponsor James Bristol, published the Shaker Mathematics Review. Containing problems in algebra, geometry, and trigonometry, the Review aided students in studying for final exams. Profits from the sales went into securing guest speakers on topics of general interest to the school. In all its activities, the Math Society provided educational supplements to and interesting diversions from ordinary classroom work.

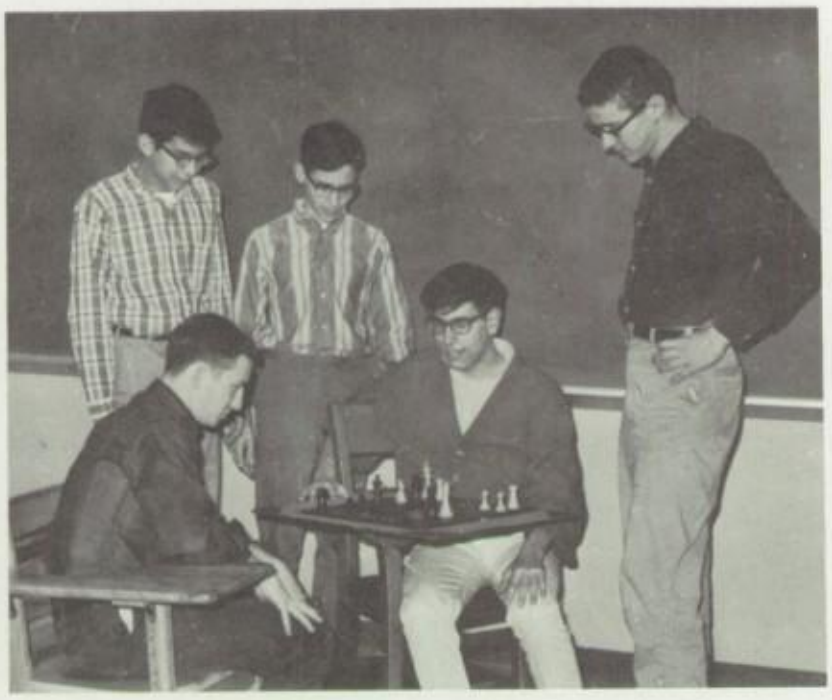
Chess Men Play Their Pieces Well



Al Miller anticipates Harley London's next move.

Stiff competition in the Greater Cleveland Scholastic Chess League formed the core of the Chess Club's program; team members won their first six matches. For meets, Shaker chessmen divided into an East and West squad, each composed of five boards (players). Frequent practice sessions helped "rookies" to improve their skills. In the first semester intraschool tournament, President Alan Miller tied Captain Harley London.

Musical Classicists Yield to Modern Melodies

Jazz made its debut at Shaker in the Classical Music Club's expanded program. At weekly listening sessions, the thirty members sampled a wide variety of music ranging from compositions by Mozart to themes by Mingus. President Celeste Simon arranged several field trips, including a visit to the Church of the Covenant for a performance of Honneger's King David. But by far the majority of the members' time was spent in understanding and appreciating good music from phonograph records. Building up a large record library and borrowing extensively from personal libraries, the Classical Music Club learned to enjoy some of the world's greatest music, both classic and modern.

"How much am I bid for this fine specimen?"

The Latin Club brought Ancient Rome to Shaker this year. Early in the year Mrs. Jones presented a talk on the fall of the Roman Empire. Soon afterwards Miss Knight showed slides of the ruins of Greece and Rome. The celebration of Saturnalia was a highlight of the year. The program featured a slave auction in which seniors bought sophomores, who were freed at the end of the festivities, and a chariot race during which members bet "pecunia," the Latin word for money, on the chariot they expected to win.

Spring was the Latin Club members at a Roman banquet. Sophomores doubled as slaves and as entertainers. Refreshments were those which Romans might have eaten.

The officers directed all of the activities of the club. They are Gordon Harper, president; Peggi Edwards, vice-president; David McNamara, treasurer; and Terri Evans, secretary.

Fervent Frenchmen's Spirits Sparkle

Paris arrived at Shaker when the French Club held a dinner, Au Restaurant de la Tour Eiffel. Savory casseroles, a miniature Eiffel Tower, wicker bottles and candles all added to the atmosphere of a Parisian Cafe. And who could forget the ferocious beast in the French movie La Belle et La Bête.

Speaking exclusively in their native tongue at the December meeting, Jocelyn Corno and Annie Thomas, two mademoiselles from France, discussed the difficulty of their baccalaureate, an important final exam taken at the end of high school. Their idea of a typical American male was "a tall, muscular, well-built man with a short hair cut and chewing gum."

A pot-pourri of local talent entertained members at Les Folies Légerès in February. For the April meeting, students, produced an original French play by David Stein. A gala election party was held at the last meeting in June.

This year the French Club worked toward greater student participation. In addition to the decoration, entertainment, and other committees, students were able to try their journalistic skills in the French Journal. With biographical sketches of teachers, cartoons, news articles, and editorials, Co-Editors Chuck Silverman and Robin Kovachy were constantly striving for improvement of the paper. Again practicing their writing abilities, members corresponded with pen pals in France.

French Club Officers are Barbara Rosenberg, David Stein, Adele Saltzman, Charles Silverman, and Myra Singer.

El club español branched out this year under the capable leadership of President Nancy Michael. Assisted by Vice-president Andee Ulevitch, Secretary Adele Saltzman, Social Chairman Jackie Schloss, and Treasurer Kathy Leeb, the club sponsored educational and entertaining programs. Cartoons in Spanish gave students listening and translating practice, and movies broadened members' knowledge of Spanish-speaking countries. La Fiesta de Navidad, a Christmas party, featured an authentic piñata which Sandy Krashin made. The highlight at the end of the year was a pot-luck supper.

Ileen Kurlander edited the Spanish Club newspaper, La Estrella, a feature introduced this year. Each issue dealt with one Spanish-speaking country, describing the customs and history of that country. Puzzles, jokes, and artwork also appeared in the newspaper.

Debaters Examine Disarmament

Four teams of students spent their spare time this year debating the topic "Resolved: that nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization. The Debate Team, divided into four levels of ability, competed in inter-high school debates throughout the state. Affiliate membership in the National Forensic League offered Shaker speakers several new opportunities to improve their skill. Led by Coach Mrs. Jones and president Carl Einstein, the squad won approximately sixty percent of its debates.

Bridge Club

Features Finesse

"Hearts, spades, clubs, and diamonds suited us just fine" might have been the motto of this year's Bridge Club. Combining learning with playing, the members participated in after school and noon-hour competition throughout the year. Frank Fine and Chuck Dubick, co-presidents, taught both beginners' and advanced classes the fundamentals and the fine points of bridge, especially concentrating on difficult problems in bidding.

During April, the club held its annual evening bridge match for students, parents, and teachers. Interscholastic competition with Cleveland Heights, Beachwood, and other schools helped the group to broaden its interests and enjoy many worthwhile hours of bridge all year long.

Orchestra Creates Symphonic Sound

ORCHESTRA—Rhonda Kelly, Gary Setnik, Alona Saltzberg, Douglas Friedlander, Jeff Aarons, Elaine Richardson.

What Shaker's Orchestra lacked in numbers, the members made up with enthusiasm. Under Robert Leibold, the Orchestra met three times weekly in the choir room. Utilizing only stringed instruments, the members performed musical works at several elementary schools and before the Parents' Music Committee. Apprentice conductor Doug Friedlander gained valuable experience while assisting Mr. Leibold in many of the presentations. When not selecting or practicing new pieces, the group enjoyed music appreciation lessons. Orchestra complemented Shaker's other musical organizations and provided a necessary cultural outlet for gifted students.

Instructional Materials: Center for Knowledge

School consists of more than long lectures and limitless homework assignments. Modern teaching methods demand the full use of tape recorders, movie projectors, photographic techniques, and other audio-visual aids to stimulate student interest. The Instructional Materials Center, reorganized and expanded under Mr. Edward Karolak, a professional photographer himself, both maintains and operates this wealth of apparatus. Interested students with Tom Wieder as President organized the Instructional Materials Club to have fun and also to gain valuable technical experience. This year, overhead projectors became a common sight in many mathematics and science classes, a daily, silent tribute to the audio-visual department. Excelling both in service and operation, the Instructional Materials Center provided an efficient, modern, and painless method of acquiring additional knowledge.

Bowlers Strike Pleasure Jackpot

"Hmm. I wonder why they don't fall down the way they're supposed to," muses Ken Rini.

Rolling away the traditional Monday gloom, each week the Boys' Bowling Club used Kinsman-Lee Lanes as a place for improving bowling technique and having fun. With over sixty Shakerites participating on fourteen teams, the club organized weekly competition culminating in a play-off between the two top teams. The club completed its season with a banquet featuring free bowling for all members. In interscholastic competition, Shaker's team placed an impressive fourth in the city tournament. The Bowlers maintained four clerical positions instead of the usual officers: two secretaries, Jeff Winer and Larry Terkel, and two treasurers, Andy Hibshman and Alan Axelrod.

Amateur Radio Beams Technical Skill

"A voice heard 'round the world" was the gift promised to Shakerites by the new Amateur Radio Club. Although lacking in equipment, these young scientists worked hard to transform the old dressing room near the small auditorium into a ham shack, a radio station for sending and receiving messages. While the seven members who had radio licenses applied to the Federal Communications Commission for a station license, other members approached the Dads' Club for funds. With Mr. Meshenberg as faculty adviser, the club participated in many communications activities throughout the year, including the nationwide Field Day in June.

Officers Bob Eckelson, Larry Sears, David Icove, and Larry Sperling look forward to having an amateur radio station operating throughout the day at Shaker. However, the members' interest does not include only amateur radio, for they are involved in all aspects of electronics. They hope one day to operate and maintain a proposed closed circuit television system that would make Shaker a true communications center.

"Fire when ready, Gridley."

An exceptionally large turnout forced adviser Charles Hendrickson to divide the seniors in this year's Rifle Club into four shooting groups. On alternate Mondays or Wednesdays the groups shot for National Rifle Association awards with rifles on loan from the United States Army. In March, a trophy was given to the winner of the annual shoot-off, Sam Guren.

F.T.A. Trains Members for Careers in Education

Guest speakers outlined all areas of education for the Future Teachers of America. The director of Pace spoke about the differences among educations in various quality schools. Miss Murphy, principal of Sunbeam School, told of the education of the handicapped. Mrs. Wesley Erbe talked about education in the elementary grades, and Dr. Emery described school administration. In October and May, the F.T.A. staged highly successful bake sales to raise money for the two scholarships which it confers annually.

Thespians Bring Our Town to Shaker

Thespians Sue Gilliss and Joni Shafran participate in Our Town.

Shaker has only one honorary club, the Thespian Society, Troupe 815. Any student who earns ten points working in the cast or on stage crew may join. The officers decide how many points each student should receive, basing their decisions on the amount of work each has done and the performance of his job. This year students had an opportunity to participate in Our Town, the fall production, Simple Simon, the children's play, and to work on crews for Kiss Me, Kate, the musical.

Early in the year, Thespians sponsored seminars to acquaint aspirants with the drama department, the fine points of good acting, and crew techniques. They also invited speakers to address interested students.

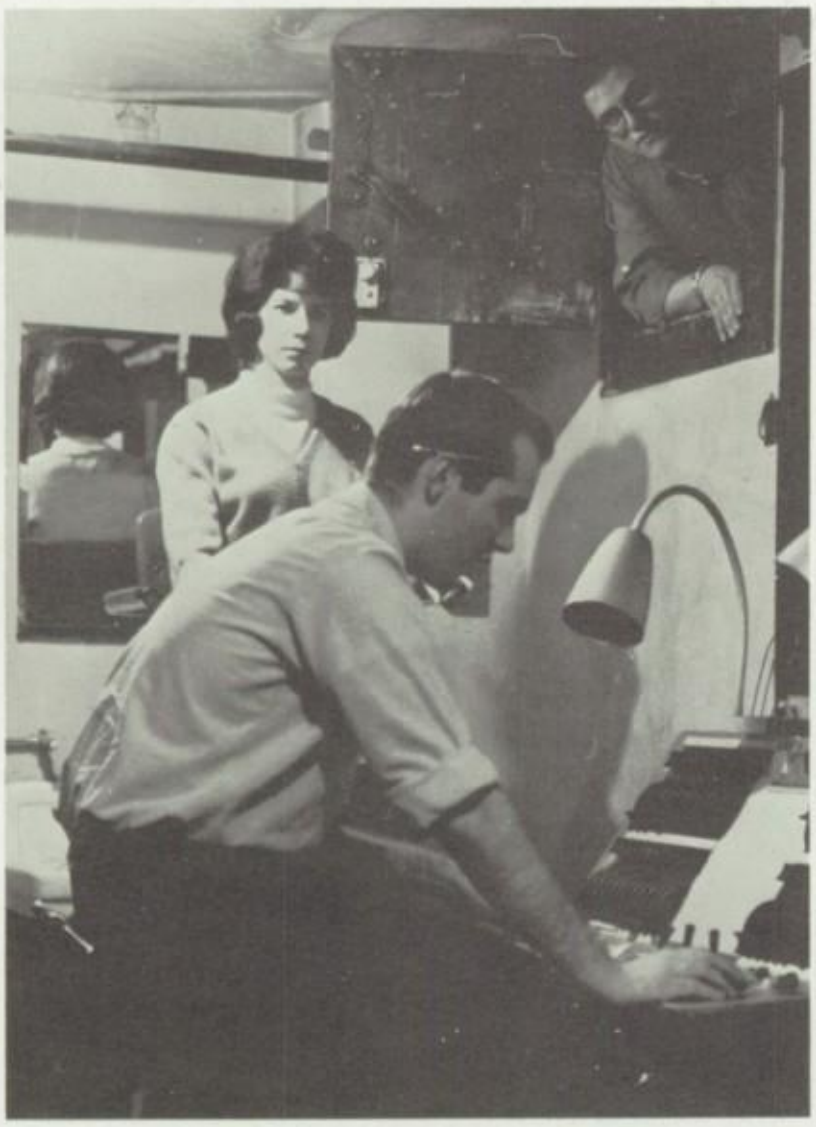
Crew Maintains Backstage Organization



Ken Hules demonstrates his automatic Homework Machine.

The stage crew spent 240 hours working backstage this year. The fall production, Our Town, presented few problems for the crews because there were no sets and few props. The make-up, light, costume, and sound crews, however, worked hard to help make the play successful. Kiss Me, Kate presented problems for all crews, though. The prop lists were extensive; many sets had to be constructed and painted; the make-up crew had to make up approximately one hundred people for each performance. Everyone needed costumes, but many of the cast could wear modern dress. The crew had to design the Shakespearean costumes and search for the clothes they needed, however.

Pre-Law Courts Justice

"And then she said . . ." Bill King.

Pre-law Club learns about law from lawyers.

Pre-Law Club, newly formed this year, concerned itself with educating its members in all phases of the law. The members heard lectures ranging in subject from trial procedure to the purposes of the law. Mr. William Van Aken gave the group reasons for entering the legal profession. He said the profession offers prestige, an opportunity for serving fellow citizens, a chance to help make democracy work and serve the cause of justice. It is also reasonably remunerative and provides a good background for business or politics.

Field trips to courts and penal institutions showed varied aspects of the law. A complete mock trial held in May climaxed the club's year.

Peppers Add Spice to Shaker

PEPPER OFFICERS—From the Top: Sue Rawson, Penny Wallis, Julie Hendricks, Linda Eisenstat, Helene Taub.

The Shaker Peppers Club developed into a completely different organization this year because the officers rewrote the constitution and introduced many new ideas. The "Block S" appeared at home football and basketball games. Senior girls practiced flipping red and white cards during the summer and after school opened, sophomores and juniors had opportunities to try out and to participate. At the basketball games girls wearing white gloves used hand motions to urge on the team.

The Peppers combined traditions and innovations by presenting skits at all of the pep rallies and by making floaters and posters to publicize the games. They also held a bake sale to raise money for red and white "Shaker Peppers" buttons, which were awarded for participation. These activities of the Peppers were responsible for the new spirit at Shaker this year.

ADVERTISING IS SHAKER. The relationship between the school and the community is one of the fine aspects of Shaker. The adult society not only aids such worthy projects as the carwash, but, on the following pages, through the cooperative venture of advertising, buys space in which to display their products and services. Whether by advertising in school publications, or by displaying publicity for important school events, the proximity of school and community gives the student valuable insight into one level of the adult society he will ultimately enter.
